CENSUS OF POPULATION, 1966.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

This Volume contains detailed classifications by age, conjugal condition, occupation and industry of the population aged 14 years and over, derived from the 1966 Census of Population. The Census was taken on the night of 17 April, 1966, in accordance with the Statistics (Census of Population) Order, 1966 (S.I. No. 40 of 1966), made by the Taoiseach in pursuance of powers conferred on him by sub-section (1) of Section 16 of the Statistics Act, 1926 and the Statistics Acts, 1926 and 1946 (Transfer of Ministerial Functions) Order, 1949 (S.I. No. 142 of 1949).

The following particulars were collected in respect of each individual - (i) Name, (ii) relationship to head of household, (iii) sex, (iv) date of birth and (v) marital condition, and for persons aged 14 years or over, (vi) principal occupation, (vii) employment status (i.e. whether employer, employee, etc.), (viii) name of employer and employer's business, (ix) area and rateable valuation of agricultural land held, (x) age at which full-time education ended and types of school, college, etc. attended (for persons who had ceased their full-time education). In addition, the head of each private household was asked to state the number of rooms in the dwelling occupied by the household

The full publication programme of the 1966 Census comprises the following reports -

COVERAGE OF THE CENSUS.

The Census figures relate to the de-facto population, i.e. the population recorded for each area represents the total of all persons present within its boundaries on the night of 17 April, 1966, together with all persons who arrived in that area on the morning of Monday, 18 April, 1966, not having been enumerated elsewhere. Persons on board ships in port are included with the population of adjacent areas. The figures, therefore, include visitors present on Census night in addition to residents, but Irish persons temporarily absent from the State on Census night are excluded. The date of the Census was, however, chosen to coincide with a period of low passenger movement and consequently the figures closely approximate to those for the normally resident population.

Members of the Defence Forces who, on Census date, were serving with the United Nations Forces abroad were, of course, excluded from the enumeration. The total number of officers and men concerned was 537.

CLASSIFICATION BY OCCUPATION.

All persons aged 14 years and over are classified to their usual principal occupation or calling, including those who are out of work and those who are temporarily confined to hospitals.

Occupations are divided into two broad categories, gainful and non-gainful, a gainful occupation being one in which the person is actively engaged and from which the livelihood is usually obtained. Persons in certain occupations who do not receive a fixed wage or salary are, however, also classified as gainfully occupied, the principal group of persons in this category being those assisting relatives in farm work. Persons engaged in home duties, persons at school and retired persons comprise the majority of the not gainfully occupied group.

The occupation, in the case of a gainfully occupied person, is determined by the kind of work performed in earning a living irrespective of the place in which, and the purpose for which, it is performed. Classification of the population by occupation thus brings together the numbers of persons engaged in the same type of work regardless of the purpose for which such work is undertaken.

The most detailed occupational classification used at the 1966 Census of Population is that shown in Appendix A of Volume IV of the Census Reports. This occupation list is used in Table 2A of the present Volume, showing males classified by age, conjugal condition and occupation. In the case of Table 2B, however, which contains similar particulars for females, occupations containing very small numbers have been grouped together.

CLASSIFICATION BY INDUSTRY.

The industry in which a person is engaged is determined (whatever may be his occupation) by reference to the business or economic activity in, or for the purpose of which, his occupation is followed. Thus, while the occupational classification is concerned only with work performed by the individual regardless of its ultimate purpose or end product, the industrial classification is concerned only with the ultimate purpose or end product, regardless of the precise nature of the work performed. A single manufacturing concern or commercial undertaking may employ persons of many different occupations for the purpose of making a particular product or giving a particular service. Conversely there are many cases in which particular occupations are largely confined to a single industry. For example, the majority of persons having agricultural occupations are in the industry of Agriculture, most fishermen are in the Fishing industry, most miners are in the Mining industry and most shop assistants are in Wholesale or Retail Trading.

It will be noted that the term "industry" as used for Census of Population purposes is not confined to manufacturing industry, but is regarded as being synonymous with the term "branch of economic activity". The basis of the industrial classification is, in the case of an employee, the business or profession of his employer and in the case of a person who describes himself as "employer" or "working on own account" the nature of his own business or profession.

CLASSIFICATION BY EMPLOYMENT STATUS.

Each gainfully occupied person was classified by "employment status" to one of the following groups -

- Employer
- Own-account worker
- Assisting relative
- Employee (other than apprentice, or learner in a skilled trade)
- Apprentice or learner in a skilled trade
- Out of work

CLASSIFICATION BY SOCIO-ECONOMIC GROUP.

The entire population was classified according to "socio-economic group". The socio-economic group of each gainfully occupied person was decided by his or her occupation or, in some cases, by a combination of occupation and employment status. Eleven socio-economic groups plus a residual group were used, the occupations assigned to each of the eleven groups being considered generally similar as regards the level of skill or educational attainment required. To the residual group were assigned persons where insufficient information as regards occupation was available to allocate them to one or other of the eleven socio-economic groups. Retired persons were classified to the socio-economic group corresponding to their former occupation, while other non-gainfully occupied persons were classified to the socio-economic group of the persons on whom they were deemed to be dependent. Thus, if the head of a family was gainfully occupied, dependent members were assigned to his socio-economic group. If the head was not gainfully occupied, other non-gainfully occupied members were assigned to the socio-economic group of the principal earner in the family. The term 'socio-economic group' used on this occasion has the same meaning as that of 'social group' used at the Census of Population, 1961 and, apart from some very minor changes, the two classifications are identical. The twelve socio-economic groups are listed below. A detailed list showing the allocation of occupations to socio-economic groups is given in Appendix D, Volume IV.

- i - Farmers, farmers' relatives and farm managers
- ii - Other agricultural occupations and fishermen
- iii - Higher professional
- iv - Lower professional
- v - Employers and managers
- vi - Salaried employees
- vii - Intermediate non-manual workers
- viii - Other non-manual workers
- ix - Skilled manual workers
- x - Semi-skilled manual workers
- xi - Unskilled manual workers
- xii - Unknown

The questions on the Census schedule from which the statistics contained in the present Volume were derived are set out hereunder.

For all persons aged 14 years or over

PRINCIPAL OCCUPATION.

If usually working for payment or profit (even if at present out of work), state here the usual principal occupation or calling.

If wholly retired, state the former principal occupation.

For other persons write, as appropriate, 'Home duties', 'Private means', 'At school' (primary, secondary or vocational), 'Student' (Medical, Law, etc.), 'Not yet at work', etc.

If an employee, state name of employer (person, firm, company or public body), address of place of work and nature of business carried on by employer. A farm worker should also state the area of the farm on which working.

If self employed, state nature of business carried on. A farmer should also state the area of the farm on which working.

If out of work, state name, address and nature of business of last employer.

AGRICULTURAL HOLDINGS.

If the rated occupier of an agricultural holding, state the area and total rateable valuation of such holding.

If none, write "none".

CONTENT OF THE TABLES.

The layout of the main tables of the present Volume differs little from that followed in the corresponding Volume of the 1961 Census. Tables 15 and 16 relating to persons out of work are additional to those included in 1961. In the age classification the 45-64 year range is divided into five-year age groups 45-49 and 50-54, together with 55-59 and 60-64 years whereas in the 1961 and earlier census volumes only the two ten year groups 45-54 and 55-64 years were distinguished.

Tables 1A and 1B show the classification of males and females in each occupational group according to age group and conjugal condition while Tables 2A and 2B give the same classification for males and females in each occupation. Tables 3A and 3B give the results for each Province, County and County Borough. Farmers in each Province and County are classified in Table 4 by size of farm, age group and conjugal condition.

Tables 5A, 5B, 6A and 6B relate to the population aged 14-19 only. Tables 5A and 5B divide the males and females in this age group by occupation and by individual year of age while Tables 6A and 6B show the numbers of males and females in each major occupational group in each County and County Borough, also by individual year of age. The total population in each socio-economic group is classified in Table 7 by age group and conjugal condition, distinguishing sex, gainfully occupied and not gainfully occupied for those aged 14 years and over while Table 8 gives the same information for the socio-economic group "Farmers, farmers' relatives and farm managers" and further subdivides them by rateable valuation of agricultural holding.

Males and females are classified by employment status and age group in Tables 9A and 10A while Tables 9B, 9C, 10B and 10C give figures for the numbers in each age group as a percentage of the total in each employment status and for the numbers in each employment status as a percentage of the total gainfully occupied in each age group. Table 11 again relates to the age group 14-19 and divides it by employment status for each individual year of age. In Tables 12A and 12B males and females in each employment status are classified by age-group and conjugal condition. Tables 13A and 13B show males and females in each industrial group by age group while Tables 14A and 14B further divide these into individual industry headings.

Tables 15A, 15B, 16A and 16B, which did not appear in 1961, classify males and females out of work by industry and age group and also by occupation and age group.

TOTAL	1,017,903	1,020,980	829,060	289,144	188,843	731,836

Of the total of 829,000 gainfully occupied males, 20.7 percent were aged under 25 years, 36.0 percent were aged 25 to 44 years, 34.5 percent were aged 45 to 64 years and 8.8 percent were aged 65 years and over. The distribution by age of the 289,000 gainfully occupied females differed considerably from that of males, there being a much greater proportion of the total in the younger age groups. Thus 45.6 percent of all gainfully occupied females were aged under 25 years, 25.0 percent were aged 25 to 44 years, 21.5 percent were aged 45 to 64 years and 7.9 percent were aged 65 years and over.

The participation rates in each age group, that is the number gainfully occupied as a percentage of the total in that age group for males and females in 1966, as well as the corresponding percentages for 1951 and 1961, are shown in TABLE II.

In 1966 some 81.4 percent of males and 28.3 percent of females, 14 years of age and over, were gainfully occupied. The proportion of males who were gainfully occupied rose from 53.8 percent for the age group 14-19 to 97.9 percent for the age groups 30-34 and 35-39 years. Thereafter it decreased regularly with age, reaching 46.1 percent for the 70-74 age group and 32.4 percent for those aged 75 and over. For females the proportion gainfully occupied rose from 46.6 percent in the 14-19 age group to a peak of 66.8 percent in the 20-24 age group. The proportion gainfully occupied then declined steadily to 17.9 percent for the 40-44 age group, rose again gradually to 22.4 percent for the 55-59 age group and then declined once more, reaching 13.0 percent for the 70-74 group and 9.8 percent for those aged 75 and over. Thus, the proportion of males gainfully occupied remained in the range 96-98 percent for the age span 25-54 and only dropped to 93.5 percent for the 55-59 age group. For females, the proportion gainfully occupied remained close to one-fifth for the 30-64 age group, having been 35.6 percent for the 25-29 age group.

In comparison with the percentages for 1951 and 1961, the proportion of young males gainfully occupied continued to fall, the percentage gainfully occupied in the 14-19 age group showing a fall of 2.4 percent between 1961 and 1966, following a decline of 8.9 percent between 1951 and 1961. There was a smaller decrease in the proportion for the 20-24 age group for males, a decline of 0.6 percent between 1961 and 1966 following one of 2.4 percent in 1951-61. The proportion of males gainfully occupied in the age groups from 25 to 64 years generally showed a slight increase in 1961-66, the greatest being 1.3 percent for the 55-59 age group. In the older age groups there were sharp declines in the proportion of males gainfully occupied, in line with the 1951-61 trend, with falls of 4.0 percent in the 65-69 group, 4.3 percent for those aged 70-74 and 2.9 percent for those aged 75 and over. Thus, for the period 1951 to 1966, the proportion of males gainfully occupied fell in the younger and older age groups but showed little change, except for a slight tendency to increase, in the intermediate groups.

The proportion of females gainfully occupied fell between 1961 and 1966 in all age groups except the 14-19 group, where it remained constant. The greatest fall was one of 3.1 percent in the 25-29 age group and the 70-74 and 75 and over age groups show falls of 2 percent each. Some of these proportions had risen in the period 1951-61, especially in the 50-64 age group, but the 1966 levels are below those of 1951 for the 50-54 and 60-64 groups. The only other age group to show a change in trend was the 20-24 group where the proportion gainfully occupied fell by 0.4 percent following a rise of 3.4 percent in 1951-61.

Overall, the proportion of males aged 14 and over gainfully occupied fell by 1.0 percent in 1961-66, following a fall of 3.2 percent in 1951-61. The proportion of females fell by 0.3 percent, following a fall of 1.8 percent in the previous interval.

AGE DISTRIBUTION OF GAINFULLY OCCUPIED PERSONS BY OCCUPATIONAL GROUPS.

Tables IA and IB of this Volume give the number of males and females in each occupational group classified by age group and conjugal condition. The percentage age distribution of males and females in the principal occupational groups, derived from these Tables, are shown in TABLES IIIA and IIIB.

TABLE IIIA shows that the occupational groups with the greatest proportion of male workers in the 14-19 and 20-24 age groups were Glass and ceramics makers, Electrical and electronic workers, Machinists, fitters and related workers, Precision instrument makers, Watch and clock makers and jewellers, Textile workers and Armed forces. In these groups, about 40 percent of all workers were in the 14-24 age group. Overall about 20 percent of male workers were in this age group. The greatest proportion of older workers were in the occupational groups Agricultural occupations, Fishermen, Workers in metal manufacture, Makers of textile goods and articles, Service workers and Entertainment and sport workers where over one-eighth of all those gainfully occupied were in the 60 and over age group.

Young male workers formed only a small proportion of the total in the occupational groups Agricultural occupations, Workers in metal manufacture, Operators of cranes, stationary engines and excavators, Foremen and supervisors of manual workers, Administrative, executive and managerial workers and Professional and technical occupations. In all of these occupational groups less than one-sixth of the total gainfully occupied males were under 25 years of age. Older male workers were least prominent in the groups Glass and ceramics makers, Electrical and electronic workers, Machinists, fitters and related workers, Textile workers and the Armed forces. In all of these under 5 percent of the workers were aged 60 or over.

The greatest concentration of male workers towards the centre of the age range was shown in the occupational groups Operators of cranes, stationary engines and excavators, Foremen and supervisors of manual workers and Administrative, executive and managerial workers.

TABLE IIIB reflects the substantially greater concentration of female workers in the younger age groups and this was most marked in the occupational groups Glass and ceramics makers, Electrical and electronic workers, Machinists, fitters and related workers, Leather workers and Textile workers. In all of these occupational groups, the age group 14-24 contained over 70 percent of all females gainfully occupied. By far the greatest proportion of older female workers was to be found in Agricultural occupations where nearly 45 percent were aged 60 years and over. The corresponding proportion was over 10 percent in only four other occupational groups - Commerce, insurance and finance occupations, Service workers, Administrative, executive and managerial workers and Professional and technical occupations

The groups containing the smallest proportion of young females gainfully occupied were Agricultural occupations, Forewomen and supervisors of manual workers, Administrative, executive and managerial workers and Professional and technical occupations. In each of these groups under one-third of gainfully occupied females were under 25 years of age. The smallest proportion of older females gainfully occupied were to be found in the groups Glass and ceramics makers, Electrical and electronic workers and Leather workers. In these groups under 1 percent of the female workers were aged 60 or over

The greatest concentration of female workers towards the centre of the age range was in the groups Tobacco preparers and product makers, Forewomen and supervisors of manual workers, Administrative, executive and managerial workers, and Professional and technical occupations, each of which contained over one-quarter of the total gainfully occupied females in the age group 30-49.

ACTUAL AND PERCENTAGE AGE DISTRIBUTION OF PERSONS IN AGRICULTURAL OCCUPATIONS

Agricultural occupations, being numerically the most important of the various occupational groups, are examined in greater detail in Tables IVA and IVB which follow and in which the 1961 and 1966 figures are compared

While the number of male farmers fell by 3,741 or 2.1 percent between 1961 and 1966, the number in the age groups 14 to 34 years showed an increase of 2,171 or 16.8 percent. The proportion of male farmers in this age group rose from 7.1 percent to 8.5 percent while the 35-39 and 45-64 age groups also had greater proportions of the male farmers. The number of male farmers' relatives assisting fell by 21,716 and this decrease was spread over all age groups. There was a rise in the proportion of male farmers' relatives assisting in the age groups 14-24 and 45 and over. The number of male agricultural labourers fell by 13,152, again spread over all age groups. The proportion of male agricultural labourers in the age group 45 and over rose by 4.6 percent.

The number of female farmers fell between 1961 and 1966 by 5,965 and this decrease was spread over all age groups. The percentage distribution of female farmers varied little between 1961 and 1966 except for a rise of 2 percent in the 45-54 age group and a fall of 2.2 percent in the 55-64 age group. The number of female farmers' relatives assisting fell by 3,137 in the period 1961-66 and this fall was spread over all ages except for a rise of 90 in the number aged 65 and over. The proportion in this age group rose by 1.3 percent and the proportion in the age group 45-64 also rose by 1.2 percent as did that in the 20-24 age group.

TABLE VA shows that males tend to enter agricultural occupations at an earlier age than they enter any other occupation. Under one-third of all those gainfully occupied in the age group 14-19 were in Agricultural occupations but well over this proportion in these occupations were aged 14 and 15 and just about one-third were aged 16. For several occupational groups, the numbers gainfully occupied were a maximum at or before age 18 and tended to fall again for those aged 19. The total numbers gainfully occupied were almost the same for ages 18 and 19 years and the biggest rise in numbers between these ages occurred in the occupational group 'Clerks'.

Of the total of 27,000 females aged 14 years, 3,834 or 14.2 percent were gainfully occupied, this proportion rising to 76.3 percent at age 19 years. The occupational groups having the greatest numbers of fourteen year old females were Service workers (1,121 or 29.2 percent of the total gainfully occupied), Makers of textile goods and articles (762 or 19.9 percent) and Commerce, insurance and finance occupations (551 or 14.4 percent). Among females aged 19 years, there were 3,091 in the Service workers group (representing 18.3 percent of the total number of gainfully occupied females at that age), 1,150 Makers of textile goods and articles (6.8 percent of the total) and 2,264 in Commerce, insurance and finance occupations (13.4 percent of the total). The occupational group containing the largest number of nineteen year old females was Clerks and typists (4,989 or 29.6 percent of the total gainfully occupied at that age). The Professional and technical group, with 1,347 nineteen year old females accounted for 8.0 percent of the total gainfully occupied at that age.

CONJUGAL CONDITION OF GAINFULLY OCCUPIED FEMALES.

TABLE VI, which follows, classifies gainfully occupied females by conjugal condition and age group for each of the years 1951, 1961 and 1966.

The number of gainfully occupied single females fell from 262,600 in 1951 to 229,200 in 1961, rising again to 235,400 in 1966. Sharp falls occurred between 1951 and 1966 in the numbers of gainfully occupied single females in the age groups between 25 and 44 years, the falls amounting to 39.6 percent in the 25-29 year group, 41.3 percent in the 30-34 year group, 30.8 percent in the 35-39 year group and 17.7 percent in the 40-44 year group. In the 14-19 and 20-24 year age groups the numbers of gainfully occupied single females, having declined between 1951 and 1961, rose fairly sharply between 1961 and 1966 by 8.2 and 15.1 percent, respectively.

The number of gainfully occupied married females rose from 22,000 in 1951 to 24,300 in 1961 and 25,000 in 1966. Between 1951 and 1966 substantial increases occurred in the numbers of gainfully occupied married females in the age groups under 35 years and 45 to 64 years, while the only significant reduction in number occurred in the 35 to 39 year group. At all three Censuses, married females represented a fairly small proportion of the total gainfully occupied females, namely 6.8 percent in 1951, 8.5 percent in 1961 and 8.9 percent in 1966.

The number of gainfully occupied widowed females decreased from 37,900 in 1951 to 33,100 in 1961 and 27,900 in 1966, all age groups being affected by this decline.

TABLE VII relates to married females only in 1966 and classifies them by occupational group.

The greatest number of gainfully occupied married females were in the occupational groups Agricultural occupations, Clerks and typists, Commerce, insurance and finance occupations, Service workers and Professional and technical occupations. Each of these groups contained over 2,000 married females gainfully occupied and together they accounted for 21,334 or 82.6 percent of the total of 25,834 married females gainfully occupied. The principal occupational groups in which married females formed the largest percentages of total were Unskilled workers, Forewomen and supervisors of manual workers, Commerce, insurance and finance occupations, Administrative, executive and managerial workers and Professional and technical occupations. In each of these, married females formed over 10 percent of the total females gainfully occupied, with Administrative, executive and managerial workers having the largest proportion, 27.3 percent. In the Professional and technical occupations group, married females formed nearly 21 percent of the total when Religious occupations were excluded.

These tables show that almost half of the employers and own account workers, both male and female, were in the 45-64 age group. Over one-half of the "assisting relatives" of both sexes were in the 20-44 age group as were more than half of the employees. Of all males at work, 46.5 percent were in this age group as were 45.8 percent of all females at work. Among female employees, 28.9 percent were under 20 years of age as compared with 13.1 percent of male employees. The age distribution for the two categories Employers and own account workers and assisting relatives did not differ greatly in this age group but a greater proportion of female employers and own account workers were in the age group 65 and over and the position was reversed in the 20-44 age group.

SOCIO-ECONOMIC GROUPS.

Table 7 in this Volume gives a detailed breakdown for each Socio-economic group by age group and conjugal condition. TABLE IX, which follows, gives the age distribution of gainfully occupied males and females in each Socio-economic group.

The most striking figures in this table are probably the percentages of those in the group Farmers, farmers' relatives and farm managers who were in the age group 65 and over. For males, this percentage was 18.8 and for females 33.7. The next highest figure in this age group for males was 8.4 percent of Higher professional, and for females 19.8 percent of the same Socio-economic group were aged 65 and over. The Socio-economic group Semi-skilled manual workers contained the greatest proportion of young males, 19.7 percent of this group being in the age group 14-19. Skilled manual workers also contained a high proportion of males in the younger age groups while for females the greatest proportion of workers in the younger age groups were to be found in the Socio-economic groups Skilled manual workers and Semi-skilled manual workers. Apart from the Farmers, farmers' relatives and farm managers and Higher professional groups, a comparatively large proportion of male workers in the older age groups were to be found in the groups Other agricultural occupations and fishermen, Employers and managers and Unskilled manual workers while the other groups containing a greater proportion of females in the older age group were Employers and managers and Salaried employees.

TABLE X shows the percentage of gainfully occupied males who were single in each Socio-economic group, classified by age group.

Less than one-third of males in the Socio-economic groups Employers and managers and Salaried employees were single and this is also true of the group Higher professional, when those with Religious occupations are excluded. Over one-half of those in the groups Farmers, farmers' relatives and farm managers and Other agricultural occupations and fishermen were single. The overall figure for gainfully occupied males was 45.7 percent. Under 40 years, Farmers, farmers' relatives and farm managers had the greatest proportion of single males while at other ages, the greatest proportion of single males was in the group Other agricultural occupations and fishermen (if one excludes males with Religious occupations from the Higher professional group). The Higher professional (excluding Religious occupations), Lower professional and Intermediate non-manual workers groups also contained higher proportions of single males in the 20-29 age group.

At ages 30 and over, the proportion who were single was lowest in the groups Employers and managers, Salaried employees and Higher professional, (excluding Religious occupations), but in the age group 20-24, the smallest proportion of single males was to be found in the groups Semi-skilled manual workers, Other non-manual workers and Unskilled manual workers and in the age group 25-29 in the groups Employers and managers, Salaried employees and Skilled manual workers. There was little variation in the proportion of single males in the 14-19 age group between the Socio-economic groups.

INDUSTRIAL GROUPS.

Tables 13A and 13B classify males and females in each industrial group by age group and TABLE XI, which follows, gives the percentage age distribution for males and females in these groups

Here again the trend towards older participation in the agricultural sector is apparent. In the industrial group Agriculture, forestry and fishing 24.6 percent of males were in the age group 60 and over while 44.4 percent of females in this industrial group were in the same age group. The Professions show the next highest percentage of people in the older age groups with 14.0 percent of males and 12.0 percent of females being in the age group 60 and over. Commerce, Personal service and Entertainment and sport also show comparatively higher proportions in the older age groups.

For males, the groups having the greatest proportion in the younger age groups were Manufacturing industries, Commerce and Personal service where over one-quarter of those engaged were aged 24 or less. The groups having the greatest proportion of females in the younger age groups were Manufacturing industries and Insurance, banking and finance. The smallest proportion of males in the younger age groups were in the industrial groups Agriculture, forestry and fishing, Transport, communication and storage, Public administration and defence and the Professions. In each of these under one-fifth of males at work were in the age group 14-24. The groups Agriculture, forestry and fishing, Professions and Entertainment and sport contained the smallest proportion of females in the 14-24 age group.

The smallest proportion of males in the older age groups was to be found in the industrial groups Mining, quarrying and turf-production, Electricity, gas and water supply, Insurance, banking and finance and Manufacturing industries. For females, the corresponding groups were Mining, quarrying and turf production, Building and construction, Insurance, banking and finance.

PERSONS OUT OF WORK

Tables 15A, 15B, 16A and 16B relate to males and females out of work, classified by occupation and age group and by industry and age group, respectively. As already mentioned the 1966 Census is the first at which classifications of this type have been prepared. TABLES XIIA and XIIB, which follow, summarise Tables 15A and 15B and classify males and females out of work by occupational group and age group.

TOTAL OUT OF WORK		8,353	2,217	1,849	828	536	497	481	475	469	416	339	246

Of the total of 43,864 males who stated that they were out of work at the 1966 Census 15,633 (35.6 percent) were in the Labourers and unskilled workers category, 9,145 (20.8 percent) were Agricultural labourers and 3,237 (7.4 percent) were Builders' labourers. Thus these three occupations together accounted for 63.9 percent of the total number of males unemployed. Of the remainder, the following occupations accounted for the greatest numbers of males unemployed — Drivers of self-propelled road goods vehicles (1,227 out of work), Carpenters and joiners (970 out of work), Shop assistants (664 out of work), Dock labourers (659 out of work), Fitters and mechanics (589 out of work), Clerks (581 out of work) and Painters and decorators (577 out of work). There were slightly over 3,000 males out of work in each of the age groups 25 to 29 and 30 to 34 years, the number rising to slightly over 5,000 in the age groups 50 to 54 and 55 to 59 years. Agricultural labourers, Builders' labourers and Labourers and unskilled workers accounted for just over half of the total out of work in the lower age groups, this proportion rising to about 70 percent in the age groups 40 years and over.

The greatest numbers of females out of work were in the occupations Maids and related workers (1,748, or 20.9 percent of the total), Shop assistants (863, or 10.3 percent of the total), Clerks (699, or 8.4 percent of the total) and Packers and bottlers (488, or 5.8 percent of the total). The largest numbers out of work were in the younger age groups, the totals in successive five year age groups decreasing steadily with increasing age. The results contained in Table 15A are further analysed in TABLE XIII, in which the numbers of males out of work are expressed as percentages of the total gainfully occupied in corresponding age and occupational groups.

The overall percentage unemployed was 5.3, but the figure ranged from 0.6 percent in the case of Professional and technical occupations to 21.9 percent in the case of Labourers and unskilled workers. The percentage unemployed, as shown in this Table, is affected by the fact that some occupational groups contain a higher proportion of self employed persons than others, whereas unemployment is confined mainly to persons in the employee class. The final column of TABLE XIII shows employees as a percentage of the total gainfully occupied in each occupational group and these percentages must be kept in mind in interpreting the figures in the earlier portion of the Table. Thus the relatively low figure of 3.2 percent unemployed in Agricultural occupations is a consequence of the fact that only 19.0 percent of males in these occupations were employees.

The percentage of gainfully occupied males who were out of work rose slightly in the 20-24 year age group compared with the 14-19 year group, but then declined to its lowest value in the 30-34 year age group. From a figure of 4.2 percent unemployed in the 30-34 year age group, the percentage rose steadily to 7.8 in the 60-64 year age group. Despite the very different levels of unemployment in the different occupational groups, the general trend in unemployment with age in most groups was very similar to that shown by the overall total, namely a slight rise in the 20-24 year age group followed by a decline at ages 25-34 years and thereafter a steady rise to age group 60-64 years.

This trend is also evident in the final line of the table which shows the number of males out of work as a percentage of total employees. Here there was also a slight rise in the 20-24 year age group followed by a decline to the lowest value in the 25-29 year age group. From this value of 5.6 percent, there was a steady rise to a percentage of 14.7 unemployed at ages 60-64 years.
