CENSUS OF POPULATION, 1971

EXPLANATORY NOTES

This Volume gives detailed classifications of the working population of the State and of the principal units of area according to the industry or branch of economic activity in which engaged, derived from the 1971 Census of Population. The Census of Population was taken on the night of 18 April, 1971 in accordance with the Statistics (Census of Population) Order, 1971 (S.I. No. 93 of 1971) made by the Taoiseach in pursuance of powers conferred on him by Sub-section (1) of Section 16 of the Statistics Act, 1926 and the Statistics Acts, 1926 and 1946 (Transfer of Ministerial Functions) Order, 1949 (S.I. No. 142 of 1949).

The following particulars were collected in respect of each individual:— (i) Name, (ii) sex, (iii) relationship to head of household, (iv) usual residence, (v) usual residence one year prior to Census date, (vi) place of birth, (vii) date of birth, (viii) conjugal condition, (ix) date of marriage and number of children (for married women only), (x) religion, (xi) knowledge of Irish, (xii) method of transport and distance travelled to work or school and for persons aged 14 years or over:— (xiii) principal occupation, (xiv) employment status, (xv) name of employer and nature of employer's business, (xvi) age at which full-time education ended and number of years' attendance at school or college, etc. (for persons who had ceased their full-time education), (xvii) scientific or technological qualifications held and fields of science concerned. In addition, the following information was collected in respect of each private household:— (i) total area and rateable valuation of agricultural land held by members of the household, (ii) nature of occupancy of dwelling (rented, owner-occupied, etc.), (iii) rent of dwelling, (iv) year house was built, (v) rooms occupied, (vi) type of water supply, (vii) availability of bath or shower, (viii) type of sanitary facilities, (ix) electricity supply and (x) motor vehicles used by household.

PUBLICATION PROGRAMME.

The publication programme of the final results of the 1971 Census will comprise the following volumes:—

- *Volume I — Population of District Electoral Divisions, towns and larger units of area.
- *Volume II — Ages and conjugal condition classified by areas.
- Volume III — Industries.
- Volume IV — Occupations.
- Volume V — Occupations and industries classified by ages and conjugal conditions.
- Volume VI — Housing.
- Volume VII — Household composition.
- Volume VIII — Fertility of marriage.
- Volume IX — Irish Language.
- Volume X — Usual residence and migration.
- Volume XI — Religion and birthplace.
- Volume XII — Transport and journey to work.
- Volume XIII — Education.
- Volume XIV — Scientific and technological qualifications.

A series of 39 special Census Bulletins has already been published. Each of the first 37 of these publications gives preliminary results for a particular County, County Borough or Province, involving classifications by age, conjugal condition, occupational group, economic activity, size and type of dwelling, water supply and sanitary facilities; the two further bulletins produced to date (Nos. 38 and 39) contain similar though more detailed information for the State as a whole together with classifications involving religion, socio-economic groups, knowledge of Irish, elderly persons living alone, type and size of households and age of housing units and the number of motor cars available to household members. While the figures in the Bulletins are described as preliminary there will be, at most, only marginal differences between them and the final figures which are being published in the relevant Census Volume.

Tabulations containing similar information for 1971 to that in the County Bulletins have been prepared for each District Electoral Division and Ward and for each town of 1,000 population and over. These tabulations are in the form of computer print-outs and will be supplied to interested persons at a charge sufficient to cover the cost of photo-copying.

*Already issued.

BASIS OF CLASSIFICATION.

Persons in their working capacity are classified, for Census purposes, according to three distinct factors, namely Occupation, Industry and Employment Status. A person's occupational classification is determined by the kind of work he performs in earning a living, irrespective of the place in which, or the purpose for which, it is performed. The nature of the Industry, Business, or Service in which the person is working has no bearing upon the classification of his occupation. For example, the occupation "clerk" covers clerks employed in Manufacturing Industries, Commerce, Insurance, Banking, Public administration, Professions and other Services, etc.

The industry in which a person is engaged is determined (whatever may be his occupation) by reference to the business or economic activity in which, or for the purpose of which, his occupation is followed. Thus, while the occupational classification is concerned only with work performed by the individual, regardless of its ultimate purpose or end product, the industrial classification is concerned only with the ultimate purpose or end product, regardless of the precise nature of the work performed. A single manufacturing concern or commercial undertaking may employ persons of many different occupations for the purpose of making a particular product or giving a particular service. Conversely, there are many cases in which particular occupations are largely confined to a single industry. For example, the majority of persons having agricultural occupations are in the industry of Agriculture, all fishermen are in the Fishing industry, most miners are in the Mining industry and most shop assistants are in Wholesale or Retail Trading.

It will be noted that the term "industry" as used for Census of Population purposes is not confined to Manufacturing industry, but is regarded as being synonymous with the term "branch of economic activity". The basis of the industrial classification is, in the case of an employee, the business or profession of his employer and in the case of a person who describes himself as "employer or own account worker" the nature of his own business or profession.

Each gainfully occupied person was classified by "Employment Status" to one of the following groups –

Employer or own account worker
Assisting relative
Employee
Out of work

The questions on the Census schedule from which the statistics contained in the present Volume were derived are as follows –

To be completed for each person aged 14 years or over

PRINCIPAL OCCUPATION

If usually working for payment or profit (even if at present out of work), state here the usual principal occupation, giving a full description.

For other persons, write, as appropriate, "Home Duties", "At School" (primary, secondary or vocational), "Student" (Medical, Law, etc.), "Not yet at work", etc.

EMPLOYMENT STATUS

If usually working for payment or profit, state whether "Employee", "Assisting relative", "Self employed, employs others" or "Self employed, without employees".

If at present out of work, write "Out of work".

EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYER'S BUSINESS

If an employee, state name of employer (person, firm, company or public body), address of place of work and nature of business carried on by employer.

If self employed, state nature of business in which engaged.

If a farmer, state the area and total rateable valuation of the farm on which working.

If a farm worker, state the area of the farm on which working.

If out of work, state name, address and nature of business of last employer.

It will be noted that persons were asked to state the name, address and nature of business of their employer, although the nature of business only was used in determining the person's industrial classification. It frequently happened, however, that the information on nature of employer's business as entered on the Census schedule was not sufficiently precise for the purpose of accurate classification. In such cases the name and address of the employer frequently enabled the Census coders to identify the nature of business precisely with the aid of trade directories, etc. It will be seen also that persons who were out of work at the date of the Census were asked to furnish particulars of their last employer. In certain tables in this Volume, namely those showing cross-classifications by industry and employment status, persons who were out of work at Census date are included. In the remaining tables, however, the classifications are in respect of persons at work only.

COVERAGE OF THE CENSUS.

The Census figures relate to the de facto population, that is to say the population recorded for each area represents the total of all persons present within its boundaries on the night of Sunday, 18 April, 1971, together with all persons who arrived in that area on the morning of Monday, 19 April, 1971, not having been enumerated elsewhere. Persons on board ships in port are included with the population of adjacent areas. The figures, therefore, include visitors present on Census night as well as residents while Irish persons temporarily absent from the State are excluded. The date of the Census was, however, chosen to coincide with a period when passenger movements were at a minimum and consequently the figures closely approximate to those for the normally resident population. Members of the Defence Forces who, on Census date, were serving abroad with the United Nations were, of course, excluded from the enumeration.

CONTENT OF THE TABLES

Little change has been made in the content or layout of the present Volume as compared with the corresponding Volume of the 1966 Census. An extra table (Table 5) has been added which shows males and females at work in Rural Districts and Towns, etc., classified by industrial groups.

The list of detailed headings under which industries are classified in the present Volume is somewhat shorter than that used in 1966 (152 headings in 1971 compared with 198 in 1966). This reduction was made in view of the difficulty experienced in 1966 in allocating persons between certain closely related groups in cases where insufficient information was provided on the Census returns.* It will be noted, also, that the numbering of the industry headings does not run in sequence (i.e. from 1 to 152) as would be the case had the practice of previous Censuses been adhered to. Instead, as most of the tables were printed by computer, the actual computer codes were used, thus simplifying the programming involved.

Table 1 shows persons, males and females at work classified by industrial group while in Table 2 the 1966 and 1971 Census results are compared for detailed industrial headings. In Tables 3A, 3B and 3C figures for industrial groups for persons, males and females at work are given for Provinces, Counties and County Boroughs while Table 4 has figures for males and females in the same areas for detailed industrial headings. Table 5 contains classifications by industrial group for males and females at work in Rural Districts and Towns, etc. while Table 6 contains certain industrial classifications for towns of 1,500 and over. An alphabetical index to the cities and towns appearing in this table is contained in Appendix B.

A comparison between the number of males and females in major occupational groups within each industrial group in 1966 and 1971 is given in Table 7 while Table 8 contains a detailed classification of males and females at work in each industry according to occupation and occupational group. In this table each occupation or occupational group having twenty or more males or females within an industry is distinguished separately.

The remaining tables are concerned with employment status, Table 9 giving comparable figures for 1966 and 1971 for the numbers in each status. Table 10A, 10B and 10C classify persons, males and females at work by industrial group and by employment status while Table 11 classifies males and females by individual industry and status. Tables 12A and 12B show the employment status of males and females in each Province, County and County Borough. On this occasion employers and own account workers have been included as one group as there was insufficient information given in many cases to enable a distinction to be made between self employed persons with employees and those without employees.

*For example, in 1966, separate headings were shown for Readymade outer clothing and Handicraft tailoring and dressmaking. It proved impossible in many cases to assign persons between these two headings except on the basis of arbitrary assumptions; thus it was decided to combine the two into a single heading (Manufacture of outer clothing) for the 1971 Census.

COMMENTARY

The total number of persons at work in the State at the date of the 1971 Census of Population was 1,054,839 of which 776,507 were males and 278,332 were females. This represents a reduction of just over 1 percent in comparison with total number of persons at work in 1966, the decline being at an approximately similar rate for males and females. The primary reason for the slight decrease was the continuing decline in the number of persons working in the agricultural sector which was almost offset by a corresponding rise in employment in other sectors.

TRENDS OVER THE PERIOD 1951 TO 1971

While the basic comparison over time in this commentary relates to the period 1966-71 (using data for the previous most recent Census taken in 1966) it is useful to consider the trends in the more important aggregates for a longer period. This is done in Table I which gives figures for the numbers of persons at work according to broad industrial groups for the Census years 1951, 1961, 1966 and 1971.

While total employment declined from 1,217,000 to 1,055,000 over the entire 20 year period concerned, it fluctuated considerably during the period mainly due to diverse trends in different economic sectors. There has been a constant decline in the number of persons working in Agriculture throughout the whole of this period, the total figure decreasing from 498,000 in 1951 to 273,000 in 1971, i.e. a reduction of 45 percent. The data indicate that the rate of decrease accelerated somewhat during the most recent period 1966-71, the number of persons at work going down by 18 percent as against a reduction of 12 percent between 1961 and 1966. This downturn was offset mainly by substantial increases in employment in Production Industries (other than Building and Construction) and Professional Services; while the increase in employment in the former sector was only marginal between 1951 and 1961 (rising from 195,000 to 198,000) a very rapid increase took place thereafter and by 1971 the number of persons working in this sector had reached 238,000 — an increase of 20 percent over the 1961 level. The number of persons at work in Professional Services increased by nearly 30 percent during the same period, rising from 85,000 persons in 1961 to 109,000 in 1971. In general during the period 1951 to 1971, where increases in the number of persons at work did occur they tended to take place during the most recent ten year period 1961-71; the period 1951-61 was one which was mainly characterised by decreases or little change in the number of persons at work in the various economic sectors.

REGIONAL PATTERNS OF EMPLOYMENT FOR BROAD INDUSTRIAL GROUPS IN 1971

This aspect is analysed in Table II which gives figures for the number of persons at work in different Planning Regions, distinguishing three broad industrial groups relating to the agricultural, industrial and services sectors of the economy. Tables 3 and 4 of this Volume give data on industries and industrial groups for Provinces, Counties and County Boroughs. The composition of the Planning Regions is shown in Appendix C.

Nearly 26 percent of the total number of persons at work at the time of the Census in 1971 were in the Agriculture, Forestry and Fishing sector with a further 31 percent in Industry (including Building and Construction) and nearly 44 percent in the Services sector. This pattern varied widely of course for the different regions. In the East region (which contains the greater Dublin area) only 6 percent of the total number of persons were working in Agriculture, Forestry and Fishing while as many as 56 percent were recorded for the Services sector (by far the highest such proportion for any region in the State) reflecting the high concentration of persons working in State and semi-State employment and in other occupations of an administrative or clerical nature; this region also had the highest number of persons working in Industry, 38 percent. Generally, for regions in the western part of the country persons working in the Agriculture, Forestry and Fishing sector predominated, the proportion of such persons varying between 42 percent and 52 percent while employment in the industrial sector was of the order of 17 to 24 percent of the total for the same regions. In general for regions on the eastern seaboard, with the exception of the "East" region, the total number of persons at work was roughly evenly distributed between the three economic sectors distinguished.

CHANGES OVER THE PERIOD 1966-71 IN THE NUMBER OF PERSONS AT WORK IN THE PRINCIPAL INDUSTRIAL GROUPS

Information on changes in the number of persons at work between 1966 and 1971 in twenty-one different industrial and economic sub-sectors is given in Table III. Table 2 of the main tables gives comparative figures for individual industries for these years.

The largest change in absolute terms took place in the Agriculture, Forestry and Fishing sector, a decrease of over 60,000 persons, representing (as mentioned already) a relative decline of over 18 percent over the five year period concerned. On the positive side there was an increase of over 15,000 persons working in Professional Services (a rise of 16 percent) and of more than 10,000 in Building and Construction (an increase of 14 percent). An increase of 8 percent took place in the Manufacturing Industries Sector (over 15,000 persons) and in this sector the largest relative increase over the period 1966-71 was for the category "Other Manufacturing Industries" which recorded an increase of 46 percent in the number of persons at work, this industrial sub-group contains a diverse range of recently developed and developing industries. The next largest percentage increase in the manufacturing sector was for Glass, Pottery and Cement where the number of persons at work increased by 2,300, or 25 percent, over the period concerned. There were only slight increases, of the order of 2 to 3 percent, in the number of persons at work in traditional or long established industries such as Food, Beverages, Tobacco, Textiles and Clothing, etc. There was a very substantial rise (both in absolute and relative terms) in the Insurance, Finance and Business Services sector of the economy where employment increased by 5,500, or nearly 30 percent, between 1966 and 1971.

Table IV above gives data showing changes in the number of persons at work over the period 1966-71 for the different planning regions, distinguishing the same three broad economic sectors as in Table II. Looking first at the total figures they show that the East Region alone recorded an increase in the total number of persons at work (4½ percent) even though the other planning regions in the eastern and southern parts of the country recorded only marginal decreases, of between 1 and 2 percent. The total number of persons working declined by 3 percent in the Mid West planning region but in the Midlands Region and in all of the remaining regions on the west coast decreases of the order of 6 to 10 percent took place. These decreases reflect the continuing fall in the total number of persons working in the Agriculture, Forestry and Fishing sector where the reductions in all regions were very substantial, ranging from 16 percent in the East Region to as high as 23 percent in Donegal. There were substantial increases in the number of persons at work in the industrial sector for all regions, the most notable increases taking place in the North East and North West planning regions which experienced rises of 19 and 26 percent respectively. For service type industries the number of persons working in all regions increased between 1966 and 1971, except in Donegal where the level was almost identical in both years. The highest increase for this sector was that of some 6 percent in the East region.

EMPLOYMENT STATUS

No less than 70 percent of the total number of persons at work at the time of the Census in 1971 were employees, accounting for 737,000 out of the total of 1,055,000 persons. About one quarter of the total (259,000 persons) were employers and own account workers, the remaining persons, who constitute only 5 percent of the total number of persons at work were recorded as "assisting relatives". Table V following gives information on the trends evident over the period 1966-71 for each of these status categories.

TABLE V : - ACTUAL AND PERCENTAGE CHANGE 1966-1971 OF GAINFULLY OCCUPIED PERSONS IN EACH EMPLOYMENT STATUS.

Employment status	Change in actual numbers (Thousands)			Percentage change
	Total all industries	Agriculture, forestry and fishing	All other industries	Total all industries	Agriculture, forestry and fishing	All other industries

Total gainfully occupied	+ 1.3	- 59.0	+ 60.3	+ 0.1	- 17.2	+ 7.8

The figures show that the decline in the number of employers and own account workers and in the numbers of assisting relatives, evident in previous Censuses, is continuing. The number of employers and own account workers fell by nearly 14,000 persons between 1966 and 1971, representing a relative decrease of 5 percent which is very similar to the rate of decline over the 1961-66 period; however the number of assisting relatives declined at a much faster rate over the same period, decreasing by 32,000 or 35 percent compared with a reduction of 22 percent between 1961 and 1966. The bulk of the decreases described above took place in the Agriculture, Forestry and Fishing sector. Despite the decline between 1966 and 1971 in the total number of persons at work, the total number of employees in all sectors increased by 35,000 (or 5 percent) over the period concerned, this overall figure however being the result of diverse trends in the Agriculture, Forestry and Fishing and other sectors — the number of employees in Agriculture, Forestry and Fishing fell by 25 percent between 1966 and 1971 but a rise of over 7 percent took place in all other sectors combined.
