CENSUS OF POPULATION, 1971

EXPLANATORY NOTES

This Volume of the Report of the Census of Population, 1971, contains detailed tables concerning housing and social amenities. A further Volume (Vol. VII) will present results with the basic emphasis on composition of households.

The Census was taken on the night of 18 April, 1971 in accordance with the Statistics (Census of Population) Order, 1971 (S.I. No. 93 of 1971) made by the Taoiseach in pursuance of powers conferred on him by Sub-section (I) of Section 16 of the Statistics Act, 1926 and the Statistics Acts, 1926 and 1946 (Transfer of Ministerial Functions) Order, 1949 (S.I. No. 142 of 1949).

INFORMATION COLLECTED

The following particulars were collected in respect of each private household and the accommodation occupied:- (i) nature of occupancy of dwelling (rented, owner-occupied, etc.), (ii) rent of dwelling, (if rented), (iii) year in which house was built, (iv) rooms occupied, (v) type of water supply, (vi) availability of bath or shower, (vii) type of sanitary facility, (viii) electricity supply, (ix) rateable valuation of agricultural holdings held by usually resident members of the household.

DEFINITIONS

A private household is defined as a group of persons living together (usually but not necessarily related), jointly occupying the whole or part of a private dwelling house, flat or temporary dwelling and sharing a common budget. A person who lives alone or a person who occupies only part of the living accommodation but does not normally share a common budget with the other occupants is also regarded as constituting a separate private household. A non-private household is a boarding house, hotel, guest house, barrack, hospital, nursing home, boarding school, religious institution, welfare institution, prison or ship, etc. However, proprietors and managers of hotels, principals of boarding schools, persons in charge of various other types of institutions and members of staff who, with their families, occupy flats on the premises are classified as private households.

Households occupying caravans or other temporary dwellings have been included as private households but most tabulations concerning private households have been compiled for private households in permanent housing units and, therefore, exclude all such temporary dwellings. Thus, the data are directly comparable with those shown for private households in the corresponding reports for previous censuses.

A housing unit is a conventional house, a structurally separate flat or a temporary dwelling, regardless of the number of private households it contains; when temporary dwellings are excluded the definition relates to a permanent housing unit. Generally, one private household occupies one housing unit but a housing unit may contain more than one household. In 1971 there were 705,180 permanent housing units in the State in which there were 726,363 private households.

A private dwelling is the room or set of rooms occupied by a private household in a permanent housing unit. There is thus a one to one correspondence between such private households and private dwellings and the numbers of these entities are the same in all instances.

The new concept of housing unit has been introduced to permit of a more consistent classification for those cases where a house or flat is shared by two or more private households and hence contains two or more private dwellings. For certain purposes it is necessary to have a definition of units of accommodation independent of the way these units happen to be occupied at a particular time.

All classifications relate to occupied housing units only. Statistics of unoccupied housing units were not compiled because of the difficulty of determining, in many cases, whether unoccupied accommodation could be regarded as habitable or not.

The number of rooms occupied by a private household is the total number used by the household, including a kitchen, but excluding a kitchenette, scullery, bathroom, toilet, consulting room, office or shop.

AGGREGATE TOWN AND RURAL AREAS

In studying housing accommodation a separate examination of the situation in town and rural areas is particularly important and in many of the tables in this Volume figures are given separately for the Aggregate Town Area and Aggregate Rural Area within each Province and County. This definition of the Aggregate Town Area is the same as that used in Volume I of the 1971 Census — it covers all population clusters of 1,500 or more inhabitants — the precise coverage is given in Table 13 of Volume I. The Aggregate Rural Area comprises all other areas, including towns of under 1,500 total population. It should be noted that, as the boundaries of towns and their suburbs or environs may alter from one census to the next and as the population may pass above or below the 1,500 limit, the precise areas comprising the Aggregate Town Area and Aggregate Rural Area may differ between successive censuses. The changes which occurred between successive censuses are discussed in Page xv of Volume I of the 1971 Census.

COVERAGE OF THE CENSUS

The Census population figures relate to the de facto population, that is to say the population recorded for each area represents the total of all persons present within its boundary on the night of Sunday, 18 April, 1971, together with all persons who arrived in that area on the morning of Monday, 19 April, 1971, not having been enumerated elsewhere. The figures, therefore, include visitors present on Census night as well as residents, while persons temporarily absent from the State are excluded.

NOTES ON THE QUESTIONS ASKED

Question 19 (Agricultural Holdings) is used to give separate classifications in Tables 20A, 20B and 20C for those permanent housing units in which there were usual residents who were the rated occupiers of agricultural holdings.

Question 20 sought information for each private household on nature of occupancy. However, the results are presented in terms of permanent housing units (Tables 13 and 15A-E). In cases where a housing unit consisted of more than one household, the nature of occupancy of the housing unit was taken to be that of the principal household e.g. an owner occupied household within a housing unit meant that the housing unit was classified as owner occupied.

Question 21 (Rent). Where the dwelling was rented the household was asked to state the rent. The results are presented in terms of permanent housing units (Tables 16A-E). In cases where there was more than one household and each one was rented, the rent of a housing unit was that of the principal tenant within the housing unit rather than the sum of the rents paid by all households in the housing unit.

Question 22 asked for the year in which the house was built. There is some uncertainty as to the degree of accuracy of the information received on this topic. It is clear, from comparisons with results of a similar inquiry at the 1961 Census, that many householders, particularly those occupying older houses, were not at all sure as to when the houses they were occupying were built. Nevertheless, because there is much interest in these figures and because they appear to be reasonably accurate for the more recent periods, they have been included in Tables 13, 17A-E and 20A.

Question 23 (Rooms occupied). Results are presented generally in terms of private households but in Table 14 the classification is for permanent housing units. The number of rooms occupied in a housing unit is, of course, the sum of the rooms occupied by the household or households within that housing unit.

Questions 24-27. The particulars of water supply, bath or shower availability, sanitary facilities and electricity supply are presented in terms of permanent housing units based on the replies of the constituent households. If any household stated that it had the use of an amenity (e.g. water supply, bath or shower) then the housing unit was regarded as having that amenity.

CONTENT OF THE TABLES

Table 1 classifies all persons in each Province, County and County Borough according to the type of private or non-private household in which they were enumerated.

Tables 2-10 give information on private households in permanent housing units and deal entirely with numbers of persons and numbers of rooms.

Tables 11-20 are concerned with housing units and give information on amenities, nature of occupancy, rent, period in which built* and the composition of the housing units in terms of their constituent households. Many of these items are also important in the context of households and this aspect will be covered in Volume VII. In that Volume, households will be classified by type (one person, man and wife, etc.), by number of persons and by their situation in respect of many of the topics for which information at the level of the housing unit is given in the present Volume.

The number of private households in permanent housing units and the number of persons and rooms occupied in each Province, County and County Borough and in their Aggregate Town Areas and Aggregate Rural Areas are given in Table 2 while Table 3 shows, for the same areas, the average number of persons in such households in 1971 and at previous censuses back to 1936. A similar comparison for average number of persons per room is outlined in Table 4. Table 5 shows the percentage of persons living in households having more than two persons per room for the Census years from 1936 to 1971, this being one measure of the extent of over-crowding in each of the relevant years. Table 6 classifies households in each Province and County by number of rooms occupied, again for the Census years since 1936. Table 7 concentrates on one-roomed dwellings only, in the same areas and in the same years, classifying such households by number of persons. Tables 8A, 8B and 8C are concerned with the actual and percentage distribution over various density ranges (i.e. number of persons per room) of persons in private households in each Province, County and County Borough and in their Aggregate Town Areas and Aggregate Rural Areas. Table 9 gives a similar breakdown for each Ward of the County Boroughs of Dublin and Cork. A detailed two way classification showing private households by number of persons and number of rooms is given in Table 10 for the same areas as Tables 8A-C.

In interpreting the data relating to period in which the housing unit was built the qualifications referred to in paragraph 4 above should be borne in mind.*

Table 11A contains the first classification concerning housing units, giving information on the number of housing units and their constituent private households, persons and rooms classified according to the type of building in which the units were situated. For permanent housing units, four types of building are distinguished in this table — “conventional house”, “one-dwelling building, partly non-residential”, “multi-dwelling building” and “institutions”. It should be borne in mind that the category “conventional house” covers not only the most frequently occurring situation involving one household occupying a whole house but also cases where two or more households occupy a house which has not been structurally sub-divided into different housing units — thus the number of households is greater than the number of housing units. The category “multi-dwelling building” relates to purpose-built blocks of flats or other buildings which have been structurally sub-divided into separate housing units; thus the numbers of housing units and households for this latter category are always the same.

Table 11B contains average densities derived from the data for permanent housing units in each County and County Borough as well as their Aggregate Town Areas and Aggregate Rural Areas. These densities are average number of persons per housing unit, per private household and per room in permanent housing unit, average number of households per housing unit and average number of rooms per housing unit and per private household.

All the remaining tables in the Volume relate to permanent housing units. Table 12 classifies the State totals for these housing units and numbers of persons therein for each type of building by water supply, sanitary facilities, bath or shower, while Table 13 presents in a similar way particulars of nature of occupancy, period in which built* and electricity supply.

Table 14 is concerned with a two way classification for the State as a whole showing number of rooms by number of persons in housing unit with separate classifications where housing unit contains one, two and three or more households.

Tables 15A-E are concerned with the nature of occupancy of housing units for different area categories; Tables 16A-E contain information on monthly rent for rented housing units in the same areas; Tables 17A-E again relate to these areas, in this case dealing with the period in which the housing unit was built* and electricity supply. The areas used in each of the above sets of Tables are (A) Provinces, Counties and County Boroughs (B) the Aggregate Town Areas of each of these (C) the Aggregate Rural Areas of Provinces and Counties (D) individual Urban and Rural Districts, towns of 1,500 population and over and (E) the Wards of the County Boroughs of Dublin and Cork.

Tables 18A-D show the situation regarding water supply for the areas listed under (A) to (D) in the previous paragraph and particulars of the type of sanitary facilities in housing units in the same areas are given in Tables 19A-D. Finally, in Tables 20A, 20B and 20C housing units with usual residents who were the rated occupiers of agricultural holdings are classified according to period in which built*, electricity supply, water supply and sanitary facilities for Provinces and Counties.

COMMENTARY

A total population of 2,978,248 persons were enumerated in the 1971 Census. Of these, 104,880 were not in private households (Table 1). A further 14,765 persons, covering 4,180 households were living in caravans or other temporary dwellings (Tables 1 and 11A). The remaining 2,858,603 persons, comprising 726,363 households, were living in 705,180 permanent housing units.

The average size of household was 3.94 persons and the average size of dwelling was 4.56 rooms giving an average density of occupation of 0.86 persons per room.

HOUSEHOLD DENSITY

Average size of household has continued to decline. Table A shows, for the Census years of 1926, 1936, 1946, 1961, 1966 and 1971, the average number of persons per private household in the State and in the Aggregate Town Area and Aggregate Rural Area.

TABLE A:- AVERAGE NUMBER OF PERSONS PER PRIVATE HOUSEHOLD.

Area	1926	1936	1946	1961	1966	1971
Aggregate Town Area	4.32	4.28	4.15	3.99	4.07	3.98
Aggregate Rural Area	4.55	4.33	4.16	3.96	3.95	3.89
Total	4.48	4.31	4.16	3.97	4.01	3.94

There has been a consistent decline in this average in the Aggregate Rural Area from 4.55 in 1926 to 3.89 in 1971. The trend for the Aggregate Town Area is similar except for the rise which occurred between 1961 and 1966 and which was not continued in the next five-year period. Table B shows, for the same years, the average number of persons per room in private households. This is an overall indication of the improvement in housing conditions.

TABLE B:- AVERAGE NUMBER OF PERSONS PER ROOM IN PRIVATE HOUSEHOLD.

Area	1926	1936	1946	1961	1966	1971
Aggregate Town Area	1.17	1.11	1.03	0.88	0.89	0.85
Aggregate Rural Area	1.19	1.08	1.00	0.91	0.90	0.87
Total	1.19	1.09	1.01	0.90	0.89	0.86

Here again the same trends as in Table A are apparent. The slight upward movement in the average number of persons per room which occurred between 1961 and 1966 in the Aggregate Town Area has been reversed while the average in the Aggregate Rural Area and for the State as a whole continued to fall. While the difference between the Town and Rural Areas was quite small in 1971, 0.85 persons per room as compared with 0.87 persons per room, there were sizeable differences between the County averages. In Table 4 of the main tables it will be seen that in the Aggregate Town Areas of Counties the lowest density was 0.70 for Dun Laoghaire Borough and the highest was 0.94 for Laoighis. In the Aggregate Rural Areas of Counties the range was from 0.81 in Wexford, Leitrim and Cavan to 0.98 in Kildare.

The improvement in housing conditions over the period 1936 to 1971, as measured by the proportion of the population living under various housing density conditions, is also clear from the data given in Table C which shows the distribution of the population living in private households according to housing density for the Census years from 1936 to 1971.

TABLE C:- PERCENTAGE DISTRIBUTION OF THE POPULATION LIVING IN PRIVATE HOUSEHOLDS ACCORDING TO HOUSING DENSITY.

Number of persons per room	1936	1946	1961	1966	1971
Up to and including 0.5	} 24.7	} 28.2	13.2	13.2	14.1
Over 0.5 but under 1			21.1	22.0	23.2
1	13.1	14.1	14.7	15.0	15.3
Over 1 but under 1.5	14.1	15.1	16.1	17.0	17.7
1.5 but under 2	15.3	16.1	15.6	15.6	14.8
2	8.8	8.1	6.4	5.9	5.5
Over 2 but under 3	10.8	9.5	7.8	7.5	6.5
3 or more	12.2	8.1	3.6	3.4	2.8
Not known	0.9	0.7	1.6	0.3	0.2
Total	100.-	100.-	100.-	100.-	100.-

The proportion of the population living in households with a density of more than two persons per room fell from 23.0 percent in 1936 to 11.4 percent in 1961, to 10.9 percent in 1966 and to 9.3 percent in 1971. On the other hand, the proportion of the population living in less dense housing conditions – less than one person per room – rose from 24.7 percent in 1936 to 35.2 percent in 1966 and 37.3 percent in 1971.

Table 5 of the main tables gives corresponding 1971 densities for each County. For the Aggregate Town Areas the proportion of the population living in households with a density of more than two persons per room varies from 3.3 percent for Dublin County (excl. Dublin County Borough and Dun Laoghaire Borough) to 13.3 percent for Offaly. The range for the Aggregate Rural Areas was from 6.3 percent for Cork County to 15.6 percent for Donegal County.

AMENITIES

As already explained, the detailed results for 1971 concerning water supply, sanitary facilities, etc. are presented in the detailed tables in terms of housing units (i.e. conventional houses or structurally separate flats) rather than private dwellings (the room or set of rooms occupied by a private household) as in previous censuses. Generally one private household occupies a housing unit but in some cases a housing unit may contain more than one household (e.g. bed-sitters). Thus the 726,363 private households in 1971 comprise 695,347 households each occupying a separate housing unit and 31,016 households occupying 9,833 housing units, giving a total of 705,180 housing units in all. In order to provide a comparison with the results for previous censuses, the data are also presented on a household basis in this commentary although the change makes little difference except when dealing with privately rented accommodation.

In 1971 some 78.8 percent of private dwellings had a piped water supply as compared with 38.7 percent in 1946. Some 70.8 percent had a flush toilet by comparison with 38.5 percent in 1946. Of the 551,136 housing units with a piped water supply, 345,409 were in the Aggregate Town Area and 205,727 in the Aggregate Rural Area. Of the 493,539 housing units with a flush toilet, 342,351 were in the Aggregate Town Area and 151,188 in the Aggregate Rural Area. Table D sets out the pattern of change over the twenty-five year interval showing the Aggregate Town Area and the Aggregate Rural Area.

TABLE D:- PERCENTAGE OF PRIVATE DWELLINGS – 1946, 1961 AND 1971 AND PERMANENT HOUSING UNITS – 1971 WITH PIPED WATER SUPPLY AND FLUSH TOILET.

Area	Percentage with piped water supply				Percentage with flush toilet
	Private dwellings			Permanent housing units 1971	Private dwellings			Permanent housing units 1971
	1946	1961	1971		1946	1961	1971
Aggregate Town Area	91.8	97.2	99.3	99.2	90.6	96.0	98.4	98.4
Aggregate Rural Area	8.6	25.0	57.7	57.6	9.1	19.4	42.4	42.3
Total	38.7	57.2	78.8	78.2	38.5	53.5	70.8	70.0

Whereas only 8.6 percent of private dwellings in the Aggregate Rural Area had a piped water supply in 1946 as compared with 91.8 percent of those in the Aggregate Town Area, the corresponding proportions in 1971 were 57.7 and 99.3 percent, respectively. Thus, while almost all private dwellings in the Aggregate Town Area now have this amenity and even though there has been a very substantial improvement in the situation in the Aggregate Rural Area, there is still a large difference in the proportion having a piped water supply in these two areas. A similar trend is shown in the case of private dwellings having a flush toilet although the growth in the provision of this amenity, in the Aggregate Rural Area particularly, has not been as rapid. Thus, 42.4 percent of private dwellings in the Aggregate Rural Area had a flush toilet in 1971 as compared with 9.1 percent in 1946 with the corresponding proportion for the Aggregate Town Area being 98.4 percent and 90.6 percent, respectively.

There are substantial differences between the various Counties in the percentage of housing units having these amenities. Over 99 percent in Dublin County (incl. the County Borough) had piped water and over 98 percent had a flush toilet. In County Leitrim, on the other hand, the corresponding figures were 45 percent and 34 percent, respectively. Table E gives the percentage figures separately for the Aggregate Town and Aggregate Rural Areas in each County.

*Including County Borough.

The percentage of housing units having these amenities in the Aggregate Town Areas exceeded 95 percent in all Counties in the case of piped water supply and 91 percent in the case of a flush toilet. However, the position in the Aggregate Rural Areas showed far greater variation. The proportion of housing units with a piped water supply in these areas varied from 42.7 percent in Leitrim to 76.8 percent in Dublin. In the case of a flush toilet, 31.6 percent of housing units in the Aggregate Rural Area of Leitrim had this amenity as compared with 54.8 percent in the corresponding area in Dublin.

NATURE OF OCCUPANCY

The change from the concept of private dwelling to that of permanent housing unit has caused more obvious differences in the case of this topic because of the fact that most of the cases where a housing unit contains more than one private dwelling are in dwellings rented other than from Local Authorities. Table F compares the numbers of permanent housing units and private households therein, distinguishing the two categories where the distinction is particularly important – “rented unfurnished other than from Local Authority” and “rented furnished or part furnished”. Three areas are distinguished – Dublin County Borough together with Dun Laoghaire Borough, the three other County Boroughs combined and the remainder of the State.

TABLE F:- PRIVATE HOUSEHOLDS AND PERMANENT HOUSING UNITS CLASSIFIED BY NATURE OF OCCUPANCY.

Area	Total		Nature of occupancy
			Rented unfurnished other than from Local Authority		Rented furnished or part furnished		Other (i.e. owner occupied, rented from Local Authority, etc.)
	Housing units	Private households	Housing units	Private households	Housing units	Private households	Housing units	Private households
Dublin Co. Borough and Dun Laoghaire Borough	140,327	154,998	17,806	21,629	7,359	17,805	115,162	115,564

Total	705,180	726,363	59,264	65,048	17,360	31,836	628,556	629,479

This table shows that the change in concept has very little effect in respect of occupancy categories other than the two which have been shown separately. The total number of housing units involved in the other categories was 628,556 as compared with 629,479 households. In the two specified categories, the main effect was in the County Boroughs and Dun Laoghaire. In the remainder of the State, there were 33,603 housing units rented unfurnished other than from Local Authorities as compared with 34,885 private households with 8,694 housing units and 11,408 households, respectively, in the rented furnished category.

In the rented furnished category, there were 7,359 housing units in Dublin County Borough and Dun Laoghaire Borough as compared with 17,805 households, the corresponding figures for the other County Boroughs being 1,307 housing units and 2,623 households.

The distribution over three main categories of occupancy in 1946, 1961 and 1971 in the State and in the Aggregate Town and Aggregate Rural Areas is shown in Table G.

* Including tenant purchase or vested cottage scheme.

The categories used here are not the same as in the previous table, which was designed to illustrate the effect of the use of the housing unit concept. There has been a consistent increase in the proportion of owner occupied dwellings in both the Aggregate Town Area and the Aggregate Rural Area over the period 1946 to 1971, the increase in the decade 1961/71 being particularly rapid. Nearly 70 percent of all dwellings were owner occupied in 1971. There was a greater decline between 1961 and 1971 in the percentage of private dwellings rented other than from Local Authorities, particularly in the Aggregate Town Area, than in the case of dwellings rented from Local Authorities.
