CENSUS OF POPULATION, 1971

EXPLANATORY NOTES

This Volume of the Report of the Census of Population, 1971 contains detailed classifications of private households by type of household composition (e.g. one person; man and wife; man, wife and single children; etc.). The data are further classified by factors showing other aspects of the composition of the household such as the number of persons, number of gainfully occupied persons, number of dependent children, number of persons out of work and elderly persons. Classifications are also shown involving characteristics of the head of the household (e.g. sex, age group, socio-economic group, etc.) and according to details of the accommodation occupied such as number of rooms, nature of occupancy, availability of amenities, etc. More detailed information concerning housing and social amenities has been published in the 1971 Census Housing Volume (Vol. VI) which, however, does not contain information on household composition.

The Census was taken on the night of the 18th April, 1971 in accordance with the Statistics (Census of Population) Order, 1971 (S.I. No. 93 of 1971) made by the Taoiseach in pursuance of powers conferred on him by sub-section (i) of Section 16 of the Statistics Act, 1926 and the Statistics Acts, 1926 and 1946 (Transfer of Ministerial Functions) Order, 1949 (S.I. No. 142 of 1949).

INFORMATION COLLECTED

The following particulars were collected in respect of each private household:— (i) total area and rateable valuation of agricultural holdings held by members of the household, (ii) nature of occupancy of dwelling (rented, owner-occupied, etc.), (iii) rent of dwelling, (if rented), (iv) year in which house was built, (v) rooms occupied, (vi) type of water supply, (vii) availability of bath or shower, (viii) type of sanitary facility, (ix) electricity supply and (x) motor vehicles used by household.

COVERAGE OF THE CENSUS

The Census population figures relate to the de facto population, that is to say the population recorded for each household represents the total of all persons present on the night of Sunday, 18 April, 1971, together with all persons who arrived in that household on the morning of Monday, 19 April, 1971, not having been enumerated elsewhere. The figures, therefore, for an individual household include visitors present on Census night as well as residents while persons temporarily absent from the household are excluded.

DEFINITIONS

A private household is defined as a group of persons living together (usually but not necessarily related), jointly occupying the whole or part of a private dwelling house, flat or temporary dwelling and sharing a common budget. A person who lives alone or a person who occupies only part of the living accommodation but does not normally share a common budget with the other occupants is also regarded as constituting a separate private household. A non-private household is a boarding house, hotel, guest house, barrack, hospital, nursing home, boarding school, religious institution, welfare institution, prison or ship, etc. However, proprietors and managers of hotels, principals of boarding schools, persons in charge of various other types of institutions and members of staff who, with their families, occupy flats on the premises are classified as private households.

Households occupying caravans or other temporary dwellings are classified as private households but most of the tabulations concerning private households have been compiled for private households in permanent housing units and, therefore, exclude all such temporary dwellings. Thus the data are directly comparable with those for private households in the corresponding reports for previous censuses.

A housing unit is a conventional house, a structurally separate flat or a temporary dwelling, regardless of the number of private households it contains; when temporary dwellings are excluded the definition relates to a permanent housing unit. The majority of housing units contain one private household. In 1971 there were 705,180 permanent housing units in the State in which there were 726,363 private households. All tabulations in this Volume are on the basis of private households. In the Housing Volume (Vol. VI) most of the tabulations are on the basis of housing units.

A family unit is defined as (i) a man and his wife (ii) a man and his wife together with one or more single children (of any age) or (iii) one parent together with one or more single children (of any age).

The number of rooms occupied by a private household is the total number used by the household, including a kitchen, but excluding a kitchenette, scullery, bathroom, toilet, consulting room, office or shop.

CLASSIFICATION OF HOUSEHOLDS BY TYPE

The classification used for private households was the same as that used at the 1966 Census of Population and first used on an experimental basis at the 1961 Census of Population. It was adapted from the recommendations proposed by the Conference of European Statisticians in the ECE publication "European Recommendations for the 1970 Housing Censuses".

The family unit forms the basis of this classification. Households containing family units were further classified into those with and those without other persons. Households containing more than one family unit were also separately distinguished as were one person households. Household size and composition relate to the persons present in the household on Census night.

The ten types of household used in the classification were:-

Households consisting of:-

1. One person only

2. Man and wife

3. Man, wife and one or more single children (of any age)

4. One parent and one or more single children (of any age)

with no other persons

5. Man and wife

6. Man, wife and one or more single children (of any age)

7. One parent and one or more single children (of any age)

with other persons

8. Two family units with or without other persons

9. Three or more family units with or without other persons

10. Two or more persons but not including a family unit

It should be particularly noted that the age of children was not taken into account in defining the household type. For example, a household comprised of a man and his wife and their child aged 10 years was assigned to Type 3 as was a household comprised of a man and his wife and their son aged 30, if the son was unmarried.

In some of the tables, households are classified by various characteristics of the head of the household such as age and conjugal condition. No instruction was given on the Census form as to which person in a household should be regarded as the head. It was indicated that particulars relating to the head of the household should be entered on the first line of the form and therefore, the person completing the household schedule indicates in this manner who was regarded by the household as the head.

CONTENT OF THE TABLES

Table 1 classifies private households in permanent housing units by type and number of persons. Each of Tables 2 to 19 follows the same format. In each of these Tables, these households are classified by type of household and number of persons within each type; they are further classified by some characteristic of the household or of the head of the household.

Table 2A gives the particulars of household type for each County and County Borough while Table 2B presents the results by the type of district, distinguishing different town size groupings. The sex and age group of the head of the household is the topic covered in Table 3 while Tables 4A and 4B give a more detailed age group breakdown for households with male and female heads, respectively. In Table 5 the classification is by sex and conjugal condition of the head.

Tables 6A, 6B, 6C and 6D provide information on rooms occupied by each household type in the State, Aggregate Town Area, Aggregate Rural Area and in Dublin County Borough. The nature of occupancy of the household is distinguished for the same areas in Tables 7A, 7B, 7C and 7D as is availability of water supply, use of fixed bath and electricity supply in Tables 8A, 8B, 8C and 8D. Tables 9A, 9B, 9C and 9D deal with sanitary facilities, again in these areas.

Table 10 classifies households according to the number of gainfully occupied persons while the measure used in Table 11 is the number of children under 14 and in Table 12 the number of dependent children under 16. Households are classified in Table 13 by the number of persons out of work and in Table 14 by the number of persons aged 65 years and over.

Tables 15 and 16 classify households by the socio-economic group and by the religious denomination of the head of the household, respectively. Table 17 classifies households by number of persons per room. Table 18 deals only with households where the head is in the socio-economic group "Farmers, farmers' relatives and farm managers" and classifies these, as before, by type and number of persons and also by the aggregate rateable valuation of agricultural holdings held by persons normally resident in the household. All households containing persons with such holdings are classified in Table 19 according to their rateable valuation.

Tables 20 and 21 deal with private households in temporary housing units and Tables 22 and 23 deal with elderly persons, distinguishing the number and percentage living alone.

COMMENTARY

Of the 2,978,248 persons enumerated at the 1971 Census, 2,858,603 were in private households in permanent housing units, 104,880 were in institutions and other such permanent premises while 14,765 were living in caravans or other temporary accommodation. There were in all 726,363 private households in permanent housing units and these are the subject of most of the tables in this Report.

While the total number of households rose from 687,304 to 726,363 between 1966 and 1971 (an increase of 5.7 percent), there were large variations within particular household types. The numbers of each type of household in 1961, 1966 and 1971 and the percentage changes between 1961 and 1966 and between 1966 and 1971 are shown in Table A.

On the other hand, the number of households with one parent and one or more children fell by 6.3 percent between 1966 and 1971 and the number with one parent, one or more children and other persons by 11.7 percent. Decreases in the number of these types of households were also shown in the 1961-66 period, the respective percentage falls being 8.1 and 16.5. In the case of all types of households, the 1961-66 trend upwards or downwards was continued in the next five-year period.

Table B classifies households by size (number of persons in household) for the same years covered in Table A.

TOTAL	676,402	687,304	726,363	+ 1.6	+ 5.7

The greatest increase in households of different sizes occurred in the case of those containing one person only — these increased from 88,989 to 102,787 (a rise of 15.5 percent) as compared with a rise of 4.2 percent in the preceding five year period. Two person households increased by 7.1 percent between 1966 and 1971 as compared with 1.6 percent in the earlier period. Households containing from three to seven persons increased by 4.1 percent from 394,394 to 410,696 between 1966 and 1971 whereas the number of households with eight or more persons fell slightly from 64,380 to 63,413. Over the 1961-66 period, all sizes of households, except those with three or four persons, registered an increase.

Table C compares the distribution of households by type in the Aggregate Town Area and Aggregate Rural Area.

TABLE C:- PRIVATE HOUSEHOLDS IN PERMANENT HOUSING UNITS IN THE STATE AND IN THE AGGREGATE TOWN AND AGGREGATE RURAL AREAS, CLASSIFIED BY TYPE AND PERCENTAGE DISTRIBUTION BY TYPE.

The main difference between these two areas occurs in the case of households consisting of husband and wife with one or more single children (of any age) which represents the most frequently occurring family situation in each case. Households of this type formed 45.7 percent of the total in the Aggregate Town Area as against only 34.4 percent in the Aggregate Rural Area.

With the exception of households consisting of husband and wife only and those containing three or more family units, the percentages for the Aggregate Rural Areas for all other categories were higher.

AGE GROUP OF HEAD AND HEADSHIP RATES

Households are classified in Table D by type and by the sex and age group of the head.

The number of households with male heads was 576,104 or 79.3 percent of the total and of these, 34.2 percent were in the 25-44 age group while a further 43.7 percent were in the 45-64 age group. A further 19.6 percent were aged 65 years and over, leaving 2.5 percent in the 15-24 age group. In the case of households with female heads, a far greater proportion, 69,253 or 46.1 percent, were in the 65 and over age group. Of these, 26,347 were in one person households and 18,233 were in households consisting of one parent and one or more single children (of any age). There were in all a total of 81,092 one parent households, 24,957 with male heads and 56,135 with female heads.

The "headship" rates, that is the percentage of males and females in various age groups who were heads of households, are shown in Table E for 1966 and 1971.

TABLE E:- PERCENTAGE OF MALES AND FEMALES IN EACH AGE GROUP WHO WERE HEADS OF HOUSEHOLDS, 1966-1971.

(a) Including one-person households.

(b) Excluding one-person households.

These rates are also given with one-person households excluded. The number of such households is fairly substantial, particularly in the case of older people, and each such person is regarded as the head of a household. The effect of their exclusion from this Table is to reduce considerably the headship rates in the case of older females.

If persons living alone are excluded, headship rates increased for all male age groups and for females aged under 25 between 1966 and 1971 but decreased for older females. The increase in the headship rates for males in the 25-44 age group is consistent with an increased proportion of married males in this age group and this would also explain the fall in the rate in the corresponding age group for females. Headship rates for males in 1971 varied from 5.2 percent in the under 25 age group to 80.8 percent for the 45-64 age group and decreased to 71.7 percent in the 65 years and over group. For females, the rate was highest in the oldest age group, being 28.1 percent for those aged 65 years and over as compared with 15.1 percent in the 45-64 age group and 3.3 percent for those aged between 25 and 44.

Table F gives similar rates for single, married and widowed males and females in 1966 and 1971.

TABLE F:- PERCENTAGE OF SINGLE, MARRIED AND WIDOWED MALES AND FEMALES WHO WERE HEADS OF HOUSEHOLDS.

(a) Including one-person households.

(b) Excluding one-person households.

This Table shows that 89.7 percent of married males were heads of households which explains the increase in headship rates mentioned previously for age groups containing the greatest proportion of married men. There was very little change between 1966 and 1971 in the headship rates for the three categories, single, married and widowed for either males or females.

SOCIO-ECONOMIC GROUPS

The composition of households in each socio-economic group is outlined in Table G. The household types have been combined in this Table into five main groups.

TABLE G:- PERCENTAGE DISTRIBUTION, BY TYPE IN EACH SOCIO-ECONOMIC GROUP.

Type of household	Total households	Percentage distribution
		Farmers, farmers' relatives and farm managers	Other agricultural occupations and fishermen	Higher professional	Lower professional	Employers and managers	Salaried employees	Intermediate non-manual workers	Other non-manual workers	Skilled manual workers	Semi-skilled manual workers	Unskilled manual workers	Unknown

There are considerable differences between the various socio-economic groups in the way households are structured. Thus, in the Salaried employees and Skilled manual workers groups, approximately 70 percent of households are of the type man and wife with or without children (without other persons) whereas only 38 percent of households in the Farmers, farmers' relatives and farm managers group are of this type. One person households were more common in the Lower professional and in the Agricultural groups whereas one parent households formed a greater proportion of the total in the Semi-skilled manual workers, Intermediate non-manual workers and Farmers, farmers' relatives and farm managers group.

HOUSEHOLD DENSITY

Table H shows the percentage distribution of persons in each type of household according to number of persons per room.

TABLE H:- DISTRIBUTION OF PERSONS IN EACH TYPE OF HOUSEHOLD ACCORDING TO HOUSING DENSITY.

TOTAL	2,858,603	14.1	23.2	15.3	17.7	14.8	5.5	6.5	2.8	0.2	100.-

The overall proportion of persons living in households with a density of two or more persons per room was 14.8 percent. There are however considerable differences between the various types of households in regard to this measure. The proportion of persons in households consisting of man, wife and children with or without other persons living in such households was 18.1 percent; the corresponding figure, however, for households containing two family units was 24.7 percent and for those with three or more family units was as high as 52.9 percent. On the other hand only a very small proportion of persons in households of the type man and wife or man and wife with other persons were in households with this density.

NATURE OF OCCUPANCY

Households are classified in Table I by type and by nature of occupancy.

TABLE I:- PRIVATE HOUSEHOLDS IN PERMANENT HOUSING UNITS CLASSIFIED BY TYPE AND BY NATURE OF OCCUPANCY.

TOTAL	726,363	112,709	65,048	31,836	71,174	428,386	17,210

The distribution by type of households in the owner occupied category, which accounted for just under 59 percent of all households, was fairly close to that for all households. However, in the case of the next highest single category — rented from local authority — over 50 percent of all households were of the type man, wife and one or more children (without other persons) as compared with 40 percent of all households. This category contained a smaller proportion of households with either one person, man and wife or two or more persons not including a family unit.

Just over one-third of all rented furnished households were occupied by one person only as compared with one-seventh of all households. On the other hand, less than one-quarter of households in the category were occupied by households consisting of man, wife and one or more children (without other persons) whereas 40 percent of all households were of this type.

TEMPORARY HOUSING UNITS

Table J deals with private households in temporary housing units and with various characteristics of persons in these households.

TOTAL	4,180	14,765	6,108	6,351	4,274	574	557

There was a total of 4,180 such households containing 14,765 persons in 1971. The largest single type was that of man and wife with or without children (without other persons) which contained 2,904 of these households and 12,026 of the persons. Children under 14 years of age accounted for 5,460 of these persons. Of the total of 4,274 gainfully occupied persons in these households, 3,137 were in households of the type mentioned above. A further 489 gainfully occupied persons were in one person households. Only 557 of the total number of persons in these households were aged 65 years and over. There were 269 of these older persons in one-person households.
