Chapter 1 Defining Government and the Public Sector

Introduction

This register provides the basis for the preparation of Government Finance Statistics and Excessive Deficit Procedure reporting for Ireland. It gives a list of all organisations in the State which are considered to be “government” bodies for the purposes of these statistics. It also lists organisations which, while under public control, are not part of the government sector. The distinction between the government and public sectors is explained later in this document.

As well as a listing of bodies to be included in the register (reference year 2018) this document sets out information on the methodology and classifications employed in its compilation. It has been updated since the version published in October 2018 – see section on Compilation and Up-Date of Register of Public Sector Bodies for further information.

Legal basis

Under Council Regulation (EC) No. 479/2009<sup>1</sup> as amended by Council Regulation 679/2010<sup>2</sup>, and Commission Regulation (EU) No 220/2014<sup>3</sup> the Central Statistics Office (CSO) is responsible for the official reporting of Ireland’s General Government Balance (GGB), Debt (GGDebt) and other Government Finance Statistics (GFS). In particular, this requires the CSO to define the scope of the government and public sectors in Ireland.

Defining Government and the Public Sector

The legally binding accounting rules<sup>4</sup> which must be used by all EU countries for producing these statistics are those of the European System of Accounts 2010 (ESA 2010)<sup>5</sup>. The Manual on Government Debt and Deficit (MGDD)<sup>6</sup> provides further guidance on the implementation of ESA 2010 when reporting GFS.

In ESA 2010, General Government is one of five mutually exclusive institutional sectors within the economy. These are (a) non-financial corporations (S11); (b) financial corporations (S12); (c) general government (S13); (d) households (S14); and (e) non-profit institutions serving households (S15).

Chapter 1 Defining Government and the Public Sector

Sectors S11 and S12 may be further sub-divided into “private” and “public”. Public corporations are those that are deemed to be controlled by government (S13).

The General Government Sector (S.13) is the set of all bodies which:

1. are directly or indirectly controlled by a Government department or office, or by a local authority;

and which either

2. lack autonomy of decision and the power to own assets/liabilities, and/or do not produce a full set of accounts (the ‘institutional unit’ test);

or

3. are non-market producers (the ‘market/non-market’ test)

Chapter 1 Defining Government and the Public Sector

Defining Control

ESA2010, para 20.18 defines control as the ability to determine the general policy or programme of that entity. Paras 2.38 and 2.39 of ESA 2010 set out, respectively, indicators of control for corporations and non-profit institutions (see Table 1). They also note in each case of that while a single indicator may be sufficient to establish control it may be necessary to assess a combination of indicators to determine control of the entity. If an entity is determined to be under public control it must then be established whether it should be classified in General Government or in the commercial public sector.

Table 1 Indicators of Government control

Corporations (ESA 2010 para 2.38)	Non-Profit Institutions (ESA 2010 para 2.39)
(a) Government ownership of the majority of the voting interest	(a) Appointment of officers
(b) Government control of the board or governing body	(b) Provisions of the enabling instruments
(c) Government control of the appointment and removal of key personnel	(c) Contractual agreements
(d) Government control of key committees in the entity	(d) Degree of financing
(e) Government possession of a golden share	(e) Degree of government risk exposure
(f) Special regulations
(g) Government as a dominant customer
(h) Borrowing from government

Defining an Institutional Unit

ESA 2010 defines an institutional unit using four criteria:

- a) ability to own goods or assets in its own right and to exchange the ownership of goods or assets in transactions with other institutional units;
- b) ability to take economic decisions and engage in economic activities for which it is itself held to be directly responsible and accountable at law;
- c) ability to incur liabilities on its own behalf, to take on other obligations for further commitments and to enter into contracts and
- d) ability to draw up a complete set of accounts, covering all transactions carried out during the accounting period, as well as a balance sheet of assets and liabilities.

An entity which fails the criteria of an institutional unit is classified in the same sector as the body which controls it. Therefore publicly controlled units which are not institutional units are classified in General Government. For example most extra-budgetary funds are not categorised as institutional units.

Chapter 1 Defining Government and the Public Sector

Defining Market/Non-Market Units

ESA 2010 (para 20.29) states that the classification of “core government units engaged in the provision of goods and services on a non-market basis and/or in the redistribution of income and wealth, is straightforward.” This refers to what are typically thought of as Government units – in Ireland’s case these would include Departments of State and their associated Offices and Local Authorities.

However, other units may also be classified to the government sector if they are controlled by Government and if they are classified as “non-market producers”. The General Government sector thus encompasses both Central and Local Government, non-commercial state owned bodies and extra budgetary funds.

Other bodies which are considered “market” institutional units controlled by Government (e.g. ESB, AIB) are classified in the ‘commercial Public Sector’ – either Non-Financial Corporation Sector (S.11) or the Financial Corporation Sector (S.12).

To determine that a publicly controlled producer is a market unit it must charge “economically significant prices”, that is prices which substantially influence the amount of the good or service which the producer is willing to supply and the consumer is willing to purchase. If the publicly controlled producer is the only supplier to government of goods or services<sup>7</sup> it must do so on the basis of competition with private producers (e.g. through a tendering process) in order to be considered a market producer. It must also have a profit-based incentive to adjust supply and must be able to operate in market conditions and to meet its financial obligations. The ability to undertake a market activity is checked via a quantitative criterion which measures whether the entity is covering at least 50% of its production costs through sales (as defined in ESA 2010 paras 20.30-20.32) over a multi-year period.

Compilation and Up-Date of Register of Public Sector Bodies

The register presented in this document is based on a number of sources including government publications, academic databases, and data collection undertaken by the CSO. During 2018 the CSO has conducted joint surveys of:

- All central government departments - with the Department of Public Expenditure and Reform
- All local authorities - with the Department of the Housing, Planning and Local Government.

This has been done in order to confirm or revise existing listings and to obtain further information as needed on all bodies under the aegis of these government units to ensure their correct classification according to the above criteria. Analysis of the results of the central government survey conducted in

<sup>7</sup> Providers of “ancillary services” such as transport, financing, purchasing, computer services etc. who provide services exclusively to a parent unit are classified in the same sector as their parent unit.

Chapter 1 Defining Government and the Public Sector

2018 is reflected in the current publication. Work on the local government survey and consequent updates to the register is on-going.

At the end of 2017 the Central Statistics Office classified a number of the larger Approved Housing Bodies into the local government subsector. Details of this decision can be seen at:

<https://www.cso.ie/en/methods/governmentaccounts/classificationdecisions/classificationofapprovedhousingbodies/> These AHBs have been included in the register since April 2018 (see section 1.2 Local Government) and their impact on government revenue, expenditure, deficit, assets and liabilities are reflected in Government Finance Statistics annual and quarterly releases available at:

<http://www.cso.ie/en/statistics/governmentaccounts/>.

The seven universities governed by the Universities Act, 1997 have been classified as under public sector control as at end 2017 and are included in the register in section 2 - Public Sector Bodies in Non-Financial Corporation Sector (S.11). This means that, as is the case for all public corporations, their stock of liabilities is included in the contingent liabilities of government, but is not on the balance sheet of government. Details of this classification can be seen at:

<https://www.cso.ie/en/methods/governmentaccounts/classificationdecisions/classificationofuniversities/>

The composition of this register is not static. Government controlled bodies are established, closed and merged over time. Also the market/non-market status of bodies must be continually reviewed. Consequently the Register of Public Sector Bodies is reviewed and up-dated periodically (at least annually).

2.1 Central Government (S.1311)

Central Government is defined to include all bodies established through political processes and for whose activities a Minister of Government or other responsible person is accountable to the people through the Oireachtas (National Parliament). This responsibility extends to the presentation of detailed audited annual accounts to the Oireachtas. Central Government includes legislative, judicial and executive bodies established in this manner. The sector does not include public corporations or enterprises engaged in the production of market services or goods. The main classes of Central Government bodies are:

- Departments of State including any additional voted expenditure under the aegis of the Minister
- Extra-Budgetary Funds for which separate accounts are maintained and which are directly administered by Departments
- Bodies which are not Departments but which are funded almost entirely from the Exchequer, are subject to controls and may be regarded as extensions of Government Departments

2.1.1 Departments of State, Ministerial Vote Groups and Extra-Budgetary Funds

In 2018 there were 17 Departments of State. These are financed by appropriations from the Exchequer Account that are voted each year by the Oireachtas. Some Departments have a number of additional votes, which provide separate appropriations for sub-offices and activities (grouped into Ministerial Vote Groups). For instance, the Central Statistics Office (CSO) is part of the Taoiseach's Vote Group but has its own separate Vote.

The full list of Departments, Additional Votes and Extra-Budgetary Funds is shown in Table 2.1.1.

2.2 Local Government (S.1313)

Local Government incorporates all bodies established for the purpose of local administration. At present this sub-sector comprises all Local Authorities, Regional Assemblies and a number of Approved Housing Bodies.

Formerly, VECs and Health Boards were also included in this subsector. Their successor bodies (Education and Training Boards and the Health Service Executive) are now classified in Central Government.

The review of bodies under the aegis of local authorities is still on-going as described earlier and a detailed list will be made available in subsequent versions of this register.
