2016 Register of Public Sector Bodies (including General Government Bodies) in Ireland

October 2017

Introduction

Under Council Regulation (EC) No. 479/2009¹ as amended by Council Regulation 679/2010², and Commission Regulation (EU) No 220/2014³ the Central Statistics Office (CSO) is responsible for the official reporting of Ireland's General Government Deficit/Balance (GGDeficit / GGB), Debt (GGDebt) and other Government Finance Statistics (GFS). In particular, this requires the CSO to define the scope of the Public Sector (which includes the General Government Sector) in Ireland. This document presents a list of bodies to be included in this register (reference year 2016) and information on the methodology and classifications employed in its compilation. It has been updated since the version published in April 2017 – see section on Compilation and Up-Date of Register of Public Sector Bodies for further information.

Classifying the Public Sector (including General Government)

The legally binding accounting rules⁴ which must be used by all EU countries for producing these statistics are those of the European System of Accounts 2010 (ESA 2010)⁵. The Manual on Government Debt and Deficit (MGDD)⁶ provides further guidance on the implementation of ESA 2010 when reporting GFS.

In ESA 2010, General Government is one of five mutually exclusive institutional sectors within the economy. These are (a) non-financial corporations (S11); (b) financial corporations (S12); (c) general government (S13); (d) households (S14); and (e) non-profit institutions serving households (S15). Commercial public sector bodies are classified as 'public' subsectors of S11 and S12.

The General Government Sector (S.13) is the set of all bodies which:

1. are directly or indirectly controlled by a Government department or office, or by a local authority;

and which either

2. lack autonomy of decision and the power to own assets/liabilities, and/or do not produce a full set of accounts (the 'institutional unit' test);

or

3. are non-market producers (the 'market/non-market' test)

Defining Control

ESA2010, para 20.18 defines control as the ability to determine the general policy or programme of that entity. Paras 2.38 and 2.39 of ESA 2010 set out, respectively, indicators of control for corporations and non-profit institutions (see Table 1). They also note in each case of that while a single indicator may be sufficient to establish control it may be necessary to assess a combination of indicators to determine control of the entity. If an entity is determined to be under public control it must then be established whether it should be classified in General Government or in the commercial public sector.

Table 1 Indicators of Government control

Corporations (ESA 2010 para 2.38)	Non-Profit Institutions (ESA 2010 para 2.39)
(a) Government ownership of the majority of the voting interest	(a) Appointment of officers
(b) Government control of the board or governing body	(b) Provisions of the enabling instruments
(c) Government control of the appointment and removal of key personnel	(c) Contractual agreements
(d) Government control of key committees in the entity	(d) Degree of financing
(e) Government possession of a golden share	(e) Degree of government risk exposure
(f) Special regulations
(g) Government as a dominant customer
(h) Borrowing from government

Defining an Institutional Unit

ESA 2010 defines an institutional unit using four criteria:

- a) ability to own goods or assets in its own right and to exchange the ownership of goods or assets in transactions with other institutional units;
- b) ability to take economic decisions and engage in economic activities for which it is itself held to be directly responsible and accountable at law;
- c) ability to incur liabilities on its own behalf, to take on other obligations for further commitments and to enter into contracts and
- d) ability to draw up a complete set of accounts, covering all transactions carried out during the accounting period, as well as a balance sheet of assets and liabilities.

An entity which fails the criteria of an institutional unit is classified in the same sector as the body which controls it. Therefore publicly controlled units which are not institutional units are classified in General Government, for example most extra-budgetary funds are not categorised as institutional units.

Defining Market/Non-Market Units

ESA 2010 (para 20.29) states that the classification of “core government units engaged in the provision of goods and services on a non-market basis and/or in the redistribution of income and wealth, is straightforward.” This refers to what are typically thought of as Government units – in Ireland’s case these would include Departments of State and their associated Offices and Local Authorities.

However, other units may also be classified to the government sector if they are controlled by Government and if they are classified as “non-market producers”. The General Government sector thus encompasses both Central and Local Government, non-commercial state owned bodies and extra budgetary funds.

Other bodies which are considered “market” institutional units controlled by Government (e.g. ESB, AIB) are classified in the ‘commercial Public Sector’ – either Non-Financial Corporation Sector (S.11) or the Financial Corporation Sector (S.12).

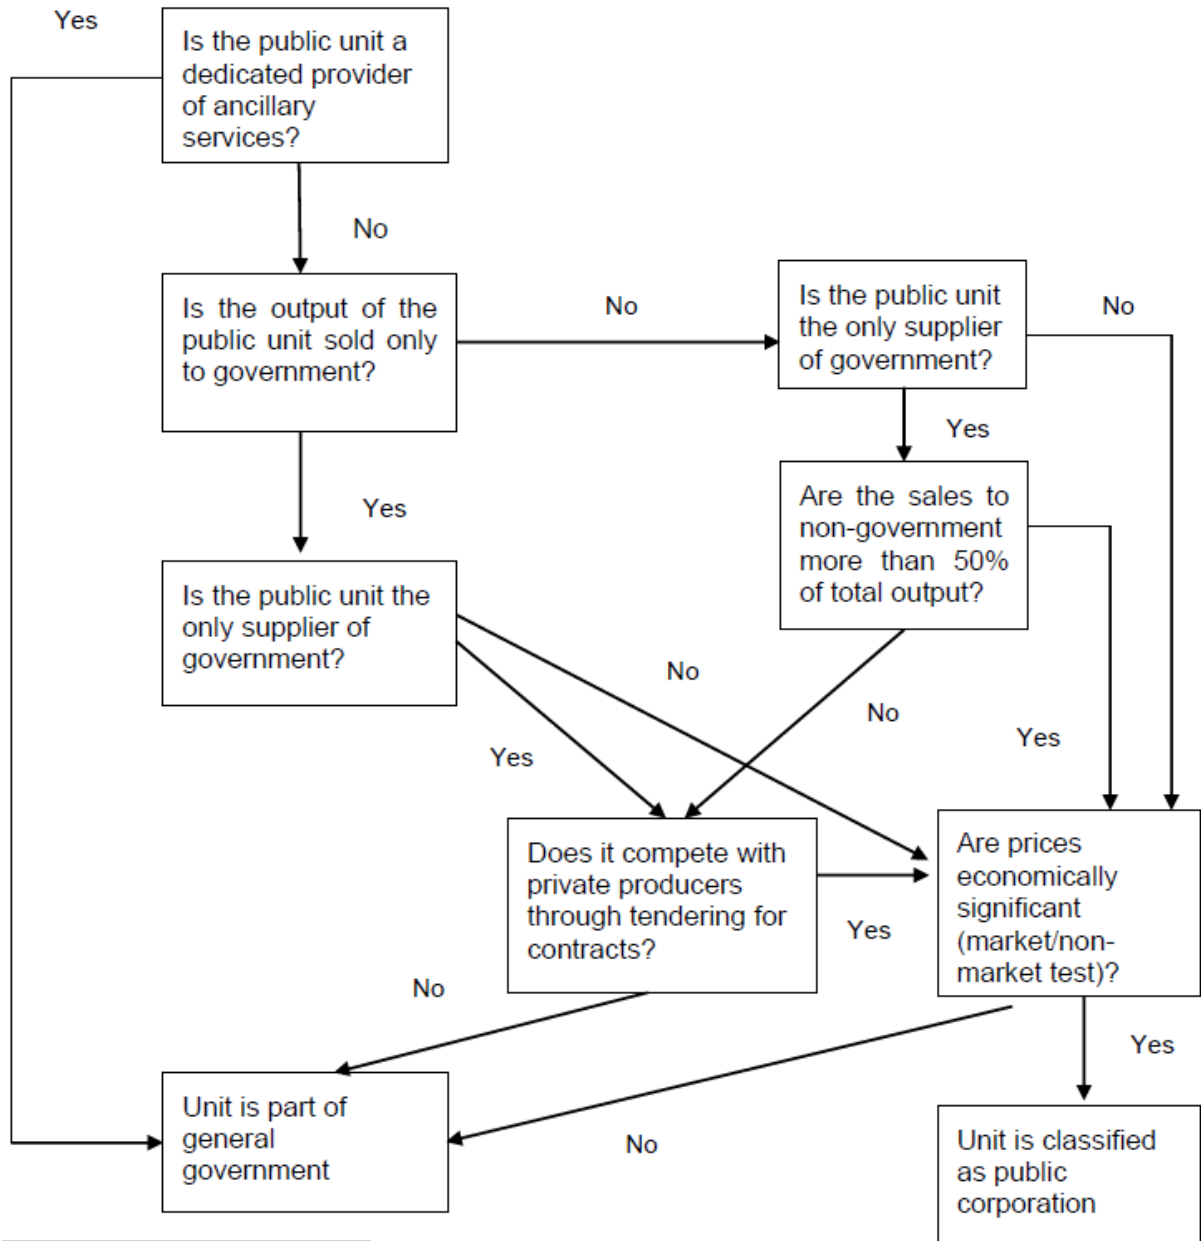

To determine that a publicly controlled producer is a market unit it must charge “economically significant prices”, that is prices which substantially influence the amount of the good or service which the producer is willing to supply and the consumer is willing to purchase. If the publicly controlled producer is the only supplier to government of goods or services⁷ it must do so on the basis of competition with private producers (e.g. through a tendering process) in order to be considered a market producer. It must also have a profit-based incentive to adjust supply and must be able to operate in market conditions and to meet its financial obligations. The ability to undertake a market activity is checked via a quantitative criterion which measures whether the entity is covering at least 50% of its production costs through sales (as defined in ESA 2010 paras 20.30-20.32) over a multi-year period.

The Register of Public Sector Bodies with reference to 2016, including General Government Bodies is provided in Annex 1.

⁷ Providers of “ancillary services” such as transport, financing, purchasing, computer services etc. who provide services exclusively to a parent unit are classified in the same sector as their parent unit.

Decision tree

Compilation and Up-Date of Register of Public Sector Bodies

The register presented in this document is based on a number of sources including government publications, academic databases, and research undertaken by the CSO. During 2017 the CSO has conducted joint surveys of:

- All central government departments - with the Department of Public Expenditure and Reform
- All local authorities - with the Department of the Environment, Community and Local Government.

This has been done in order to confirm or revise existing listings and to obtain further information as needed on all bodies under the aegis of these government units to ensure their correct classification according to the above criteria. A preliminary analysis of the results of the central government survey conducted in 2017 is reflected in the current publication. Work on the local government survey and consequent updates to the register is on-going.

The composition of this register is not static. Government controlled bodies are established, closed and merged over time. Also the market/non-market status of bodies must be continually reviewed. Consequently the Register of Public Sector Bodies is reviewed and up-dated periodically (at least annually).

Annex 1: Register of Public Sector Bodies, 2016

1 Public Sector Bodies in General Government Sector (S.13)

1.1 Central Government (S.1311)

Central Government is defined to include all bodies established through political processes and for whose activities a Minister of Government or other responsible person is accountable to the people through the Oireachtas (National Parliament). This responsibility extends to the presentation of detailed audited annual accounts to the Oireachtas. Central Government includes legislative, judicial and executive bodies established in this manner. The sector does not include public corporations or enterprises engaged in the production of market services or goods. The main classes of Central Government bodies are:

- Departments of State including any additional voted expenditure under the aegis of the Minister
- Extra-Budgetary Funds for which separate accounts are maintained and which are directly administered by Departments
- Bodies which are not Departments but which are funded almost entirely from the Exchequer, are subject to controls and may be regarded as extensions of Government Departments

1.1.1 Departments of State, Ministerial Vote Groups and Extra-Budgetary Funds

In 2016 there were 16 Departments of State. These are financed by appropriations from the Exchequer Account that are voted each year by the Oireachtas. Some Departments have a number of additional votes, which provide separate appropriations for sub-offices and activities (grouped into Ministerial Vote Groups). For instance, the Central Statistics Office (CSO) is part of the Taoiseach's Vote Group but has its own separate Vote.

The full list of Departments, Additional Votes and Extra-Budgetary Funds is shown in Table 1.

1.2 Local Government (S.1313)

Local Government incorporates all bodies established for the purpose of local administration. The principal bodies included are Local Authorities. Formerly VECs were also included in this subsector.

The review of bodies under the aegis of local authorities is still on-going as described earlier and a detailed list will be made available in subsequent versions of this register.

1.2.1 Local Authorities

Local authorities operate under the supervision of the Minister for Housing, Planning, Community and Local Government. Up to mid-2014 they consisted of 5 City Councils, 29 County Councils, 5 Borough Councils and 75 Town Councils as well as 8 Regional Authorities and 2 Regional Assemblies. With the passing of the Local Government Reform Act, 2014 a new structure comprising 31 city and county councils was brought into effect from 1 June 2014, (following local elections on 23 May 2014). The new structure is as follows:

Local Authorities as at end 2016

Carlow County Council
Cavan County Council
Clare County Council
Cork City Council
Cork County Council
Donegal County Council
Dublin City Council
Dun Laoghaire/Rathdown County Council
Fingal County Council
Galway City Council
Galway County Council
Kerry County Council
Kildare County Council
Kilkenny County Council
Laois County Council
Leitrim County Council
Limerick City & County Council
Longford County Council
Louth County Council
Mayo County Council
Meath County Council
Monaghan County Council
Offaly County Council
Roscommon County Council

Sligo County Council
South Dublin County Council
Tipperary County Council
Waterford City & County Council
Westmeath County Council
Wexford County Council
Wicklow County Council

1.2.2 Education and Training Boards (formerly Vocational Education Committees)

Up to mid 2013 there were 33 VECs operating in respect of 27 county council areas, 5 city council areas and one in the former borough area of Dun Laoghaire. They provided and managed second level vocational schools and community colleges in their own local areas, employed administrative and teaching staff and provided education and ancillary services for their administrative areas. They were financed partly from local rates and partly from Exchequer grants.

On 1st July 2013, the 33 VECs were dissolved and replaced by 16 ETBs. ETBs are established under and governed according to the Education and Training Boards Act 2013. Each ETB is a statutory body with its own corporate status. They are statutory education authorities with responsibility for education and training, youth work and a range of other statutory functions. ETBs manage and operate second-level schools, further education colleges, pilot community national schools and a range of adult and further education centres delivering education and training programmes.

The ETBs are financed solely through Exchequer grants and revenue generated from self-financing courses. They generate no revenue from local rates, unlike the previous arrangement for the VECs. While the VECs were historically classified in Local Government due to the revised governance arrangements in place ETBs are classified in Central Government.
