Industrial Disputes

First Quarter 2002

Disputes in Progress

	Disputes	Workers	Days lost
Q1 2001	11	21,189	90,427
Q4 2001	2	302	670
Q1 2002	8	1,081	3,623

Less than 4,000 days lost in the first quarter

During the first quarter of 2002, there were 3,623 days lost due to industrial disputes. This compares to 90,427 days lost for the same period last year. The 8 disputes in progress in the first quarter of 2002 involved 1,081 workers.

The number of days lost in Q1 2002 is the lowest Q1 total since 1999. The days lost in Q1 2002 are well down on the 90,427 days lost for the same quarter last year even when one allows for the large effect the teachers strike had on last years figures.

56% of the days lost in the first quarter were due to 2 disputes in the health and social work sector. A further 20% (720) of total days lost were in the manufacturing sector. See table 1.

¹The quarterly totals in these columns will not always add to the annual total since an Industrial Dispute can be in progress in more than one quarter.

Background Notes

Sources The information on Industrial Disputes is based on details supplied by the Monitoring Unit of the Department of Enterprise, Trade and Employment and on information collected directly from other sources by the Central Statistics Office.

Scope Disputes are included in this release if they involve a stoppage of work lasting for at least one day and the total time lost is 10 or more person-days.

Days Lost In calculating days lost, it is assumed that work would have continued if no dispute had occurred. No allowance is made for loss of work from unemployment or other causes (such as bad weather) which might have happened even if there was no dispute. The number of days lost is calculated by multiplying the number of persons involved by the number of normal working days during which they were involved in the dispute. Persons working for approximately 40 hours per week are assumed to be working the equivalent of a 5 day week even if the work is spread over more than 5 days.

Disputes in Progress The tables show data on disputes which began and disputes which were in progress in each quarter. The quarterly figures for the number of disputes in progress and for the number of firms and workers involved will not always add to the annual total, since an industrial dispute can be in progress in more than one quarter.
